Chumash

Shell Bead Money

by William D. Hyder, ANA 54598

Too often we overlook or express only casual interest in primitive monetary systems. Perhaps it is because the objects used as money bear little resemblance to our modern coinage and currency. Or, it may be due to conflicting reports as to the actual monetary status of the objects. We seem to react to the term, primitive, as if its definition were "backward" instead of Webster's definition that it "pertains to man's origins." However, when subjected to closer scrutiny, the lives of primitive man become much more complex than we assumed them to be. The shell beads of the California Chumash Indians are one example of a complex monetary system which has, until recently, been overlooked.¹

Above: A rock painting by Chumash Indians, three-feet wide, located in San Luis Obispo County, California.

Primitive Money

Paul Einzig in his book, Primitive Money, offers a concise definition of primitive money. "Primitive money may be defined as a unit or an object conforming to a reasonable degree to some standard of uniformity, which is employed for reckoning or for making a large proportion of the payments customary in the community concerned, and which is accepted in payment largely with the intention of employing it for making payments."²

Although he has been criticized for being overly broad in his acceptance of primitive monetary forms, Einzig's definition conforms to market oriented definitions and non-market concerns.

For example, Jacques Melitz adopts a primarily market oriented approach with his definition, "Money consists of all goods that are held in significant measure in order to economize on transaction costs in the activity of trading a variety of other types of goods."³ In contrast, George Dalton argues that primitive money served non-market functions as well, functions which should not be ignored simply because they do not appear in modern Western society.⁴

Uniformity in the definition is not an absolute, requiring only that the objects in question can be reduced to some recognizable standard by weight or measurement. They may vary in quantity, weight, and/or appearance. For example, the coinages of medieval Europe were often exchanged on the basis of weight and purity. It was not unusual for coins to be cut into pieces of the size required to complete a transaction. Although cut coins failed to conform to a standard size, shape, or weight, they were still accepted as circulating money.

The essential element of the second half of the definition requires that the object be accepted with the intention of its future use for making payments. In barter situations, the items being exchanged may be traded according to their value as determined by the local primitive monetary system. However, goods which are exchanged solely with the intent of immediate consumption would not normally be classed as primitive money.

Barter is the simplest form of primitive economics. The items being exchanged need not represent the same standard of value from trade to trade. Rather, they are exchanged according to the values placed on the goods by the parties involved at the time of the trade. Robert Stearns, in an early study of shell money,⁵ recognized that barter works only so long as two people have things to trade with one another. Ultimately, they may find it more convenient to use a third, favored good to facilitate exchange, particularly when no other goods are available to complete an otherwise desirable transaction. The intermediate good would have to be sufficiently durable to survive until its next use in a transaction and lend itself to easy storage and accessibility.

Ornamental objects have often become the favored intermediate good. Almost always manufactured from durable materials, they may be easily transported on the person and are visible enough to serve a social function such as the display of power or status between economic uses. Primitive societies were characterized by their wealth of free time. Based on data collected among Australian aborigines,⁶

Marshall Sahlins estimates that primitive man devoted no more than four hours per day to survival oriented pursuits. Some portion of free time was probably devoted to the pursuit of luxury items representing wealth or status within the community.

Ornamentation is a common item used to satisfy the status needs of productive, as well as nonproductive members of society, its acquisition not necessarily requiring that an individual forego the pursuit of materials necessary for basic subsistence.

Shells have been widely adopted as items of ornamentation and mediums of exchange because they exhibit the virtues of durability and uniformity. While not all shells represent foodstuffs, they may be gathered in the process of collecting food from the marine environment. Varying widely in their acceptance by economic anthropologists as money, shells were used extensively throughout Oceania in monetary systems exhibiting a broad range of development. Shells from Angola were used as money in the Congo. Alaskan tribes used a form of shell money, and most people are familiar with the shell wampum used in Canada and the Eastern United States. Snail shells were a favored medium of exchange in Brazil and Paraguay, while the Chinese were among those partial to cowries. In most cases, the shells were exchanged strung as standard length necklaces to serve the dual purpose of exchange and ornamentation. Given a continuing demand for their use as ornamentation, it should not be surprising to find that shells or shell beads would ultimately be accepted as a standard medium of exchange.

Ornamentation was also important to the Chumash. The men usually went naked in summer, wearing only carrying nets around the waist. Skin cloaks provided warmth in winter, while the women wore buckskin or grass skirts year round. As with many other American Indian tribes, they enhanced their appearance through the art of body painting, tattoos, and jewelry. Red ochre was the favored painting material, while shell products served as hair, ear, and nose ornamentations. Bead necklaces were worn by men and women alike. In addition to its decorative function, the wearing of a necklace meant that a supply of money was always at hand.

Chumash Economics

The Chumash inhabited the region of California distinguished by its east-west coastline, from San Luis Obispo to Malibu on the coast and inland to the foothills of the San Joaquin Valley. To the south, they ventured across the Santa Barbara Channel and populated the Northern Channel Islands. While there were six recorded Chumash language dialect districts, their territory may be divided into three distinct regions. The coastal Chumash generally located their villages on high ground, near the mouth of small streams. Inland, they settled the benchland, potreros (high grasslands), and valleys of the Transverse Ranges. The third region was composed of four Channel Islands with most activity apparently centered on the largest, Santa Cruz. Differing patterns of resource distribution can be seen to have contributed to the development of a monetary form to support a market economy.

Although evidence of human habitation on the islands goes back 10,000 years, the development of Asphaltum, indispensable for Chumash manufacturing processes, made a perfect adhesive and waterproofer. It was used in a variety of ways ranging from the caulking of canoes and the manufacture of water-tight bottles to weights on the tips of grass skirts.

Archaeological evidence suggests that the Mojaves, middlemen between Southern California and the Southwest, traveled to the coastal villages for trading purposes at least as early as 1000 AD. The diversity of goods that might be expected to accumulate in these villages would make them ideal locations for the development of trading centers, especially with mariners among the trading population.

Inland, terrestrial plants and animals supported the Chumash population. Serpentine and sandstone were used as abrading stones and for the manufacture of bowls, mortars, and pestles. Oak was carved into bowls and plates, while native grasses and tules were woven into baskets and mats of superior workmanship. The number of surviving stone pipes suggests that the wild tobacco of the inland areas was also a popular trading item.

As Chester King has demonstrated,⁷ the constant flow of goods between villages would have fostered the development of a market economy. With each territory offering a limited variety of abundant exploitable resources, the specialization of craft manufacturing would follow. With the growth of sufficient trade, the introduction of a monetary medium would facilitate the valuing of heterogeneous lots of goods and bring about an economy in price quotations.⁸ King also establishes that it would serve to balance resource utilization among the territories of the Chumash.

Accounts from the early Spanish expeditions invariably mention the use of shell beads in a monetary role. Indeed, they also found their own glass beads acceptable to the Indians. In August of 1769, Miguel Costansó, a member of the Portola Expedition, recorded an early instance of economic exchange between the two cultures; "Men, women, and children came to the camp bringing fish, both fresh and roasted, eager to obtain glass beads and trinkets, which are the best money and more highly valued among them than gold and silver."⁹ Within thirty years, the Spanish glass beads had established themselves within the economic cycle. José Longinos Martínez, a trained observer conducting a botanical survey in 1792, commented on Chumash economics:

All these Indians are fond of trafficking and commerce. They trade frequently with the mountain people, bringing fish and beadwork, and exchange them for seeds, shawls of fox skin, and a kind of blanket made of fibers of a plant resembling cotton, preferring it to their own made of otter. In their trading they use beads for money. The beads are strung on long threads, arranged according to their value. The unit of exchange is a ponco of beads, which is two turns of the strings about the wrist and the extended third finger. The value of a ponco depends on the fineness and color of the beads, ours being held in the greatest esteem; it also depends upon their abundance and their price relative to ours. In everything they keep as careful account as the most scrupulous magnate does of his money.¹⁰

The extent of the trade facilitated through the use of shell beads is illustrated in Figure 2. Adapted from a display at the Santa Barbara Museum of Natural History, it illustrates the variety of trading activity. While many of the goods exchanged were perishable, an ethnographic study by James Davis lists many of the items recorded on the chart.¹¹ Invariably, we find shell beads among the items flowing from the Channel Islands outward. Examples of these exchanges indicate the wealth status attributed to beads and the range of their distribution.

From the Central Valley, the Tubatulabal Indians traveled four days on foot in order to trade with the Ventura area Chumash. The Tubatulabal measured their personal wealth in terms of shell money and were eager to accept it in payment for their labors. E.W. Voeglin provides an account of their interaction:

From the Chumash, Tubatulabal obtained shell money, shell cylinders, steatite, probably, and later times horses; these exchanged for pinons . . . Occasionally the Chumash made reciprocal visits. In trading, a sack of pinons was left on the ground; the Venturenos came up; and took as many as they wanted, and laid shell money down in payment.¹²

Clamshell beads formed the basis for their currency system, while olivella shells (see discussion of bead types) were used only for ornamentation. Voegelin reported on trade within the tribe, especially at the end of winter as family supplies began to run low, "chia seeds, yellow-hammerquill bands, fine baskets, etc., each had a fixed price in the standard lengths of imported clamshell disks used as currency."¹³ Wealth, as measured in clamshell strands, also served ceremonial and political functions. Strings would be distributed to visitors at fiestas and paid to dancers at a variety of gatherings. For the most part, shell strings were hoarded in animal skin bags as a measure of a man's wealth. Selection of chiefs, chosen for a variety of reasons, including family ties, took into consideration the individual's clamshell worth.

Friar Pedro Font, a member of the 1776 Anza expedition, observed that the Chumash "have commerce with the Mojaves and others of the Colorado River, with their cuentas or beads, consisting of flat, round, and small shells which they hunt for in the sands of the beach, and of which they have long strings hung around the neck and on the head."¹⁴ Although Davis acknowledges Mojave receipt of shell beads in his study of Indian trade routes, he failed to verify items received by the Chumash in return. King quotes sources which include red ochre and black blankets, goods which are potentially perishable or indistinguishable from materials gathered locally.

The presence of shell beads from California has been noted in the American Southwest for a number of years. Jay Ruby has shown that of the three most common shells found in Southwestern archaeological sites, two are from the Pacific Coast.¹⁵ Both abalone and olivella are shells manufactured into beads and ornaments by the Chumash. While there is no evidence that such beads circulated as money, Ruby presents a convincing argument that many moved from the Chumash to the Mojave to the Southwestern Indians. It would not be inconsistent to find the monetary function of the beads decreasing as they circulate further from the center of their manufacture, although they apparently retained their value as a trade item.

Trading was one method of regulating tribal economic systems, as moving shell beads out of the local monetary system served to lessen the risks of inflation. However, since wealth was often measured by the number of beads retained by the individual, trade was not sufficient to offset the gradual accumulation of beads within the local system. Mortuary practices, particularly burial of possessions with the dead and destruction of personal goods during mourning ceremonies, further decreased the available supply.

Classification of Types

Shell beads can be classified according to two primary types, each of which can be divided into three subtypes. Chester King identified six categories of beads along functional and value considerations based on regularities in archaeological data collected from an extensive Chumash cemetery near Los Angeles.¹⁶ Type 1 represents those beads used in every day commerce as discussed in the previous section. Type 2 is comprised of beads usually reserved for official use by village chiefs. The mainstay of daily economic activity was a small bead manufactured from the olivella biplicata or olive shell. While not very colorful after being worked into a bead, they required a great deal of labor to produce, thereby attaining their value. They were used throughout California by people of all social classes.

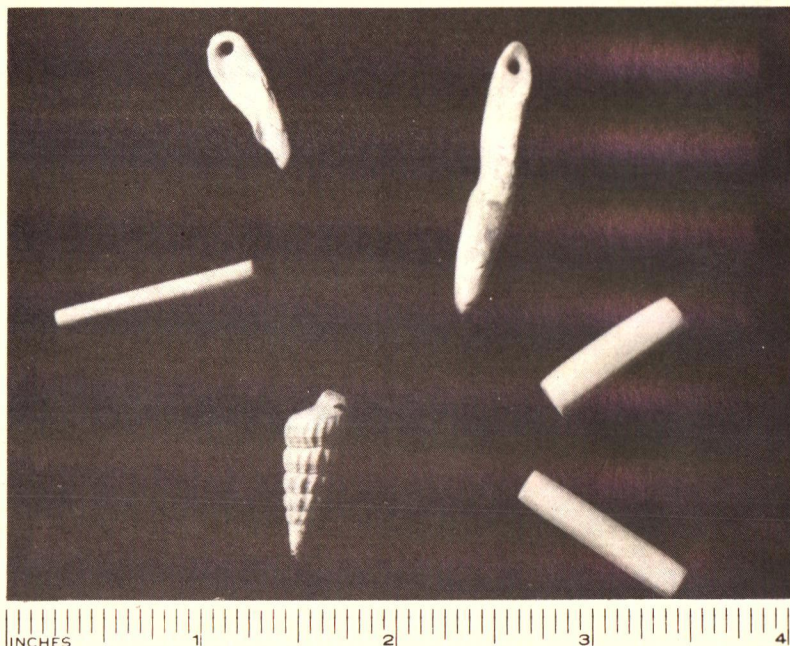

Figure 5: Shell callus spoons and tube beads (the long slender tube is a bird bone) and one whole shell perforated so it can be strung.

A second subtype within Type 1 was used primarily by professional traders. More showy than those of the first subtype, the beads were still produced largely from olivella shells. These, however, were often incised or made into tubes fashioned from the shell callus. (The callus, or columella, is the thick part of a shell composed of hard enamel. Requiring yet more labor in their manufacture, columella tubes were naturally of a higher value than simple beads.) Such beads usually remained within Chumash territory.

King describes a third class of bead manufactured from the soft but lustrous and colorful abalone shell. Being fairly easy to work, King suggests their use was restricted to the wealthy. He notes that they probably "demonstrated that their owners had enough wealth to invest in 'useless' beads."¹⁷ I have placed these into the third subtype of Type 1 although their overall representation in the sample collected is low (less than .01%) and subject to reinterpretation.

Type 2 beads, generally more showy than the cost of their production would warrant, may have evolved from the Chumash village political structure. A chief or "wot" was responsible for the village welfare. He or she, (the Chumash were not particular in this regard), maintained the village stores, money, ceremonial items, and other valuables necessary to the function of the village. Although many villages shared a common dialect, culture, and religion, each developed its own customs and maintained a relative degree of independence within Chumash society. Furthering the specialization of production which marked Chumash society, the villages controlled the rights to exploit the resources within its own territory. It should not be surprising to find that they evolved a monetary form limited to intervillage exchange and ceremony.

Much of the intertribal and intervillage trading which occurred was accompanied by village feasts.

Trading activities posed the threat of conflict if the offered exchanges fell short of expectations. Feasts, and the requisite ceremonies, served to socialize the meeting of the two trading groups.¹⁸ They were an occasion for the village stores to be stocked with gifts from the visitors, and for the exchange of ceremonial forms of money between village leaders and visitors of high social status. In quantity, the beads described in the following were indicators of social rank and often represented contributions to community stores.

The first subtype, composed of small cylinders and disks made from olivella, abalone, mussel, and clam shells, were low to medium value beads representing rights to community stores. As such, they were given to chiefs from other villages and those who helped maintain the stores. The second subtype, a variation of the first, was a higher value tube formed from the columella of the Pismo clam. The third subtype was used in exchanges between community stores. As such, their use was restricted to village chiefs. They are distinguished from others in that they are smaller and more refined, or are made from hard, colorful, globular portions of shells and tubes. As with other subtypes, olivella beads predominate.

Method of Production

Although the size and nature of beads fluctuated with time, the basic method of production remained the same. D.B. Rogers, in Prehistoric Man of the Santa Barbara Coast,¹⁹ provides a clear description of bead production based on his own attempts to duplicate Chumash efforts. As the olivella shell bead predominates, its production is a logical choice for illustration.

Shells were generally collected in the spring and early summer when they were most common on the local beaches. Bead blanks were obtained by splitting the shells longitudinally with a flint knife. A pitted anvil held the shell in the proper position. Depending on current tastes and the bead maker's skill, the thick upper half was retained while the rest was discarded. From approximately 1700 to 1800 the enamel callus was retained to make tube and spoon shaped beads. Several hundred to several thousand blanks would be made at a time.

A small stone hammer and anvil would next be employed to chip the blanks into a rough disk shape. A number of these disks would then be arranged on a slab of shale or sandstone for drilling. Using a hand drill tipped with a small triangular chert bladelet, the bead maker would drill a small hole in each blank through which it could be strung. After enough had been produced to compose a string, the perforated blanks would be rounded as a unit in the grooves of an abrading stone. The degree of uniformity influenced the ultimate value placed on the beads. Strings which have survived range in composition from small, highly refined and uniform beads to strings composed entirely from unshaped, perforated upper halves of shells.

Rogers found that he could produce one bead in 30 minutes using the primitive tools. Trying my own hand at bead production using more modern tools found in the trunk of my car, I worked for 25 minutes to make one bead of less than perfect size and shape. A pair of pliers and a pointed kitchen knife took the place of stone hammers and flint drills. A piece of cardboard made a usable base for drilling, but I reverted to using a sandstone abrading surface after failing to make any visible headway using modern sandpaper.

As should be apparent, shell bead production is an intensive labor process. Olivella and other shells were fairly plentiful in Chumash times, yet they were not easily converted to money. Allowing for their mastery of the manufacturing process, Rogers estimated that it would take 87 ten hour days to produce one, three ply, 21 inch necklace of 3500 beads. Even if we cut his estimate in half, such a necklace would still represent 43 days of labor.²⁰ Production time could be saved by producing less refined beads. These of course would be worth less, representing less labor.

One might suspect that the first glass beads introduced by the Spanish would be held in high esteem owing to their relative rarity. The Chumash had welcomed the arrival of the Spanish, often being so friendly as to drive them away overburdened with fresh food supplies. Spanish glass beads quickly became predominate in Chumash economic dealings. At the same time, olivella bead production lost its refinement. But as Chumash society disintegrated due to mission influences and the ravages of pleuro-pneumonia and syphilis, the people reached out for the remnants of their former life. Glass beads fell from favor and olivella shells returned to their former role in economic dealings.

Conclusion

That the Chumash exhibited a highly advanced cultural and social system is unquestionable. As anthropologists have developed better methods to interpret available evidence, we have also learned that they exhibited a complex economic system as well. Central to their exchange of goods were the strings of shell bead necklaces.

Conforming to Einzig's definition of primitive money, the beads exhibited a reasonable degree of uniformity and were measured according to standard lengths. Variances in refinement of production were controlled through differing values being placed on standard lengths. From Figure 2, we can see that most exchange interactions among the Chumash and their neighbors involved shell beads at one time or another, meeting the final tests of Einzig's definition that the beads circulate. While it may be difficult to prove in practice, the circulation of shell bead money would also perform the function of economizing transaction costs as required by Melitz.

Significantly, Type 2 Chumash shell beads also filled a non-market function as suggested by Dalton. Rarely used in day-to-day economic activities, such beads were symbolic of the bearer's rank and status.

Together, economic and ceremonial beads helped the Chumash adapt to fluctuating conditions in their local environment. In doing so, they served many of the same functions attributed to money in our own "modern" society. Recognizing that monetary forms have evolved, just as methods of food production, government, warfare, etc. have evolved, should not be too difficult.

Author's Note: Larry Wilcoxon of the Anthropology Department of the University of California, Santa Barbara made a number of helpful suggestions during the preparation of this paper and made available artifacts from university collections for illustration purposes.

Ephraim Brasher

Originator of the Famous Brasher Doubloon

by Richard A. Bagg, LM 1857, and Q. David Bowers, LM 336

The 1787 gold doubloon issued by Ephraim Brasher, New York goldsmith, silversmith, and jeweler, is probably the most famous American coin in the entire world. In the few instances that specimens have appeared in auction sale catalogues during the past century, great acclaim and publicity have accompanied the offerings. There has even been a motion picture entitled The Brasher Doubloon which used this coin as a theme.

Although Brasher and his coinage have been researched on several occasions in articles published in The American Journal of Numismatics, The Numismatist, and elsewhere, as well as in auction catalogue listings, the first detailed study did not appear until 1958 when Walter H. Breen wrote "Brasher & Bailey: Pioneer New York Coiners, 1787-1792," for inclusion in the Centennial Publication of the American Numismatic Society. Unfortunately, specific details concerning the issuing of his famous 1787 doubloon still remain elusive.

Ephraim Brasher was born in 1744 of Dutch ancestry. The family had several branches, some of which used such spelling variations as Brasier, Brazier, Breser, Bresert and Bradejor. We are told by his great-great-great granddaughter, Deborah, that the name is not pronounced BRASH-er, "The 'a' is long, and the 's' is pronounced like a 'z'—so the right pronunciation is BRAY-zher."¹ The family produced several silversmiths over the years, including Ephraim's younger brother Abraham.

Ephraim Brasher took Anne Gilbert as his wife in 1766. Little information is available about her except that her brother was a silversmith also. This same year saw one of the earliest appearances of work attributed to Brasher's silversmithing. A silver coffeepot bearing his hallmark, presently housed in the Abbott-Lenox Fund Collection in the New York Historical Society, has been attributed to 1766, when he was 22 years old. It is reasonable to assume that he had completed his apprenticeship by then and, having married, had begun to work on his own.

During the Revolutionary War, Brasher served as a grenadier in the provincial Army from 1775 to 1776. In 1783 he participated on the Evacuation Day Committee which celebrated the event of the British troops being withdrawn from New York City.

There is no official record of civic and local affairs of the New York City Government until February 10, 1784, as the city was under a military form of government for the duration of the Revolutionary War period. With the establishment of the civilian government, systematic minutes were kept and Brasher is mentioned on various occasions in these records.

On August 31, 1785, Ephraim Brasher petitioned the Common Council that he might "be permitted to convert the fire Engine House in St. George's Square into a Place of Business on his erecting a fire Engine House on his own ground." Although several local proprietors objected to the petition, it was granted by the Council on September 28, 1785. Perhaps it was intended that the structure be turned into a smithing location. St. George's Square was located at the intersection of Pearl and Cherry streets. The New York City Directory, first published in 1786, gave 1 Cherry Street as Brasher's address.

The Articles of Confederation, adopted in 1787 and continuing in effect until 1789, stipulated that Congress had the power to regulate the value and alloy of coins struck, although the various states had authority to coin money. As Congress had not implemented a framework for federal production of coins, specimens in circulation continued to be an assortment, including much foreign coinage.

The Bank of New York, established in 1784, distributed a list of coins, their weights, and the accepted value at which various foreign gold coins would be received in payment. The New York Register, published in 1789, noted that "payments made at the bank must be examined at the time, as no deficiencies suggested afterward will be admitted."³

Because many of the gold coins circulated were counterfeit, it was considered unwise to accept any coin until it was pronounced genuine. Confusion arising from the wide variety of denominations, designs and countries of origin aided the counterfeiters. Added to this was the problem of clipping (the practice of removing small amounts of metal from a coin's edge) and other illicit practices for obtaining profit from a coin such as sweating them to extract minute portions of gold.

Although there is some controversy on the subject, it is generally believed that Brasher performed the service of assaying, testing and evaluating foreign gold coins. He would then counterstamp those pieces he deemed to be genuine and sufficient in weight with his initials EB in an oval stamp (his hallmark) as a guarantee. Several specimens of foreign gold coins marked in this way are known today, including a rose guinea of George II, a quarter guinea of George I, and a "half joe" of Joseph I (which was offered in the sale of the James Ten Eyck Collection in 1922).

Howland Wood, in an article titled, "The Coinage of the West Indies with Especial Reference to the Cut and Counter-stamped Pieces," which appeared in the American Journal of Numismatics in 1914, advanced the theory that Brasher was relied upon to certify the legitimacy of certain coins. Similarly, in an article titled, "Ephraim Brasher, Silversmith of New York," appearing in the American Collector in 1938 by Stephen Decatur, the author declared "Brasher's reputation for probity was unquestioned; it was immediately recognized that his initials on a gold or silver coin was a guarantee of its purity."⁴ Vernon L. Brown published his article "The Brasher Doubloon" in The Numismatist in 1964. He resisted this theory, pointing out that there was no evidence that any other goldsmith performed such a service.

Among his other duties, Brasher served as assayer for the United States Mint. The "Estimated Expenditures for the Year 1796," contained in the American State Papers reports a $27 Treasury Warrant:

... in favor of John Shield, assignee of Ephraim Brasher, being for assays made by said Brasher, in the year 1792, for the Mint of sundry coins of gold and silver, pursuant to the instructions from the then Secretary of the Treasury.⁵

A record of the petitions of Ephraim Brasher and John Bailey appealing to the New York State Assembly for the right to produce copper coins is found in the Assembly Journal where it is stated: "The several petitions of John Bailey and Ephraim Brasher, relative to the coinage of Copper within this State, were read and referred [to committee]."⁶

There is no trace of the original petitions and it is not known whether they were submitted separately by Ephraim Brasher and John Bailey in competition with each other, or together in partnership. It is known that Brasher did not always work alone, and at one time John Bailey was associated with him, as were his brother, Abraham, and George Alexander. According to the 1787 New York City Directory, Brasher and Bailey lived in close proximity to each other (77 Queen Street and 22 Queen Street respectively) which could lead to the assumption of a partnership between them at the time.

On March 3, 1787, the committee appointed by the Assembly was "at a loss to determine the extent of the intended regulation, whether it was only to ascertain the value of the pieces now in circulation, or was meant to extend to a new coinage."⁷ The contention was that any new coinage would be subject to certain abuses. On March 15th it was resolved that another committee be appointed "to establish a Coinage of Copper in the State."⁸ By April 12th the bill emerged under the title An Act to Regulate the Circulation of Copper Coins in the State, which indicates an alteration in the original intent of the bill. It was passed into law on April 20, 1787.

During the period between February 12th, when Brasher is supposed to have initiated his petition, and the enactment of the retitled Act on April 12th, the legislators drifted from the original proposals for new coinage to the narrower purpose of regulating the existing coinage. In the Comprehensive Catalogue and Encyclopedia of United States Coins, Don Taxay remarks that "possibly some or all of the doubloons were presented to the legislature in order to effect a favorable verdict,"⁹ as the size of the doubloon was identical to the planchet size for coining coppers. Contrarily, Walter Breen believes the doubloons were made for circulation, not as patterns. In the Standard Catalogue of United States Coins, published in 1954, it was proposed that a gold coinage was needed for larger transactions during the 1787 era, and, therefore, the doubloon was minted for that purpose. Another theory proposes that these pieces were intended as souvenirs.

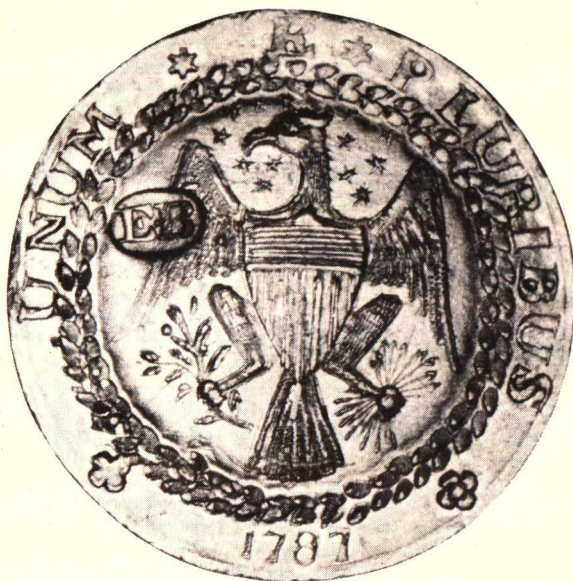

The 1787 doubloons bearing the full surname, BRASHER, as a signature, do not have a value marked on them. This was not an unusual situation during this period. When the United States Mint first produced gold coins they bore no mark to identify the denomination, probably following the tradition they were accustomed to, as British gold denominations were not identified. The same was also true of numerous foreign issues then in circulation. The value was determined by the metallic purity and weight. For this reason, the countermark "EB," which appears on all known examples of the Brasher doubloon would have been a further indication of the coin's quality.

Brasher had obtained considerable fame and a reputation for the quality of his silver and gold products. George Washington owned various pieces crafted by Brasher. Among the items in the inventory of the Washington household were two tea trays identified with the EB in an oval. At one time Washington was a neighbor to Brasher's 1 Cherry Street address. When planning his move to 3 Cherry Street, Washington requested Samuel Osgood, past commissioner of the Treasury, "to put the same and the furniture thereof in proper condition for the residence and use of the President of the United States."¹⁰ Brasher's shop on Queen Street was only a short distance north of his home on Cherry Street and it was therefore convenient for Osgood to purchase "sundry articles of plate," which totaled slightly over 283 pounds sterling.

In April 1790, following his move to Broadway, Washington paid 8 pounds, 8 shillings and 4 pence for "4 silver skewers" to Brasher, who was also supplying his wares to other notables such as George Clinton. Brasher's esteemed reputation is attested to by the patronage of these prominent people, especially that of the President, a patronage which must have been seen as the equivalent of royal patronage by a citizenry accustomed to judging by such signs. It would have been logical for him to believe that gold coins prominently bearing his name would be accepted in the channels of commerce.

In addition to his activities in silversmithing and goldsmithing, Brasher was busy in civic affairs. In 1784 and 1785 he served as sanitary commissioner. From 1786 to 1791, according to the minutes of the Common Council, he was paid as a coroner, "for taking inquest on dead bodies." He served as an assistant justice from 1794 to 1797, an election inspector from 1796 to 1809, and as commissioner of excise between 1806 and 1810.

The records show a second marriage for Brasher on December 2, 1797. When he died in 1810, he bequeathed to his wife Mary, "all my estate both real and personal."¹¹ In 1811 the City Directory lists: "Brasher, widow of Ephraim," and marks the end of Brasher's contribution to our monetary system.

A Brief Chronology of Brasher's Doubloon

The first numismatic recognition for the Brasher doubloons came in 1838 when Adam Eckfeldt discovered a piece among some gold coins which were sent to the Mint for assaying and melting. He saved the piece and placed it in the Mint Cabinet which was in its early stage at the time. In 1846, W.E. DuBois, referring to this specimen, commented that it is "a very remarkable gold coin, equal in value to a doubloon, coined at New York in 1787."¹²

In 1858, it was described by J.H. Hickcox in An Historical Account of American Coinage. It was illustrated in Dr. Montroville W. Dickeson's The American Numismatic Manual, which first appeared in 1859. Dickeson states he had seen four examples and "it is said to have been duplicated in silver,"¹³ but stipulates he had never seen one in that metal. He subscribed to the pattern theory to explain the issue, commenting "it is inferable that this coin was gotten up as a pattern piece."¹⁴

The first appearance of a 1787 Brasher doubloon was anticipated at the sale of the Seavey Collection, catalogued by W.H. Strobridge in 1873. However, the entire collection was purchased intact by Lorin G. Parmelee prior to the sale and the event was cancelled.

When Sylvester Crosby's monumental work, The Early Coins of America, appeared in 1875, it contained an illustration of the Brasher Doubloon. The author noted, "Four of these doubloons have come to our knowledge; they are owned by Mr. Bushnell, Mr. Parmelee, Mr. Stickney and the United States Mint at Philadelphia; the first has the punch-mark on the breast of the eagle."¹⁵

The first actual sale finally occurred in 1882 at the public auction sale of the Charles I. Bushnell specimen. The sale was conducted by the Chapman brothers. The price realized was $505. Later it was sold to T. Harrison Garrett through Edouard Frossard. Today, this piece remains as the only specimen of the variety with the EB punched on the eagle's breast rather than on the wing.

Today, five specimens of the 1787 doubloon, with punch-mark on the eagle's wing, can be traced. An outstanding example of this type was in the Matthew Stickney Collection sold by Henry Chapman. It was an important feature of The American Numismatic Society Exhibition of United States and Colonial Coins in 1914. The piece was acquired by Colonel James E. Ellsworth from the Stickney Collection sale in 1907 and subsequently acquired by John Work Garrett for the Garrett Collection in 1923. Thus the Garrett Collection has the distinction of housing one of each of the two known varieties of the Brasher doubloon.

Garrett Collection Auction Breaks All Records

1787 Brasher Doubloon Sells for Record $725,000 Over $7 Million Worth of Coins Sold in 662 Lots

The book of coin price records will have to be rewritten following Bowers & Ruddy Galleries spectacular sale of the Garrett Collection, sold to the order of The Johns Hopkins University on November 28-29, 1979. The sale, one of four scheduled events offering Garrett coins, realized a total of $7,069,650. The world record price for a rare coin was set when lot 607, the finest known example of America's most famous coin, the 1787 Brasher doubloon, was knocked down after furious bidding for $725,000. The buyer, Mr. Martin Monas, stated that he was purchasing it for a client, one of America's most prominent numismatists.

Interest was lent to the sale when a surprise guest, Mr. Milton Brasher, the great-great-grandson of Ephraim Brasher, was introduced to the audience. Mr. Brasher does not personally own a copy of the famous doubloon, but he is appreciative of the Brasher family history. Brasher, he related, is a Huguenot name and is now and always was pronounced as "Brazier."

U.S. Mint Coinage The First Century

The term "world's record price" lost its meaning after the first several lots. Virtually everything in the sale set a new record.

Some of the half cent highlights were: 1793 EF half cent $10,000;

1795 Uncirculated half cent $30,000; 1796 Extremely Fine half cent, pole to cap, $14,000; 1797 AU half cent $14,000; 1836 original Proof half cent $9,000; 1845 original Proof half cent $9,500; 1849 small date restrike Proof half cent $6,800; an 1856 Proof half cent $9,500.

Cents sold for the following prices: 1793 chain AMERI, AU-50, $29,000; 1793 chain AMERICA, Uncirculated, $115,000—which turned out to be the first of 11 coins in the Garrett sale which crossed the $100,000 mark. 1793 Libery cap cent AU $36,000; 1794 S-24 Uncirculated $17,000; 1794 S-48 Very Fine $14,000; 1794 S-56 Uncirculated $16,000; 1795 Jefferson head cent Fine $7,500; 1797 S-138 Uncirculated $15,000; 1803 S-254 Uncirculated $11,500; 1803 S-258 AU $12,000; 1838 Proof $11,000; and a coin which caused gasps of amazement, an 1847 Uncirculated cent, lot 193, which sold for $10,000.

Among small cents, the famous 1856 flying eagle in Proof sold for $4,200; an 1857 Proof flying eagle sold for $5,800; 1859 Indian Proof $2,500; 1860 Proof $1,800; and an 1877 Proof $3,200.

Half dimes in the auction included some of the finest ever to cross the auction block. A 1794 AU sold for $7,500; two 1795 pieces in the same condition brought $9,000 and $4,500 respectively (the later piece had some adjustment marks); a Choice Brilliant Uncirculated 1796/5 elicited spontaneous applause as it found a new buyer at $60,000; the famous Newlin 1802 half dime, Extremely Fine, brought $45,000; 1805 Extremely Fine $10,000; 1829 Uncirculated $4,000; 1831 Proof-like Uncirculated $5,500; 1838-O AU $7,000; 1840 Uncirculated with drapery $5,000; 1841 Choice Uncirculated $5,500; 1847 Proof $6,500; 1856/4 Proof $13,000; 1859 regular issue Proof $8,000; 1860 transitional Uncirculated $7,000; 1864-S Choice Brilliant Uncirculated $6,000; an 1866 Proof $3,200.

Among half dollars the following prices were realized: 1794 Extremely Fine $5,800; 1795 MS-60 Uncirculated $18,500; and another 1795 MS-60 Uncirculated, slightly finer, $34,000; 1796 with 15 obverse stars Very Fine $32,000; 1796 with 16 stars Fine $17,000; 1797 Extremely Fine $30,000; 1806 Uncirculated $28,000; 1797 old style Uncirculated $35,000; 1813 Uncirculated $9,000; 1815 AU $3,400; 1822 Uncirculated $12,500; 1836 lettered edge Proof $34,000; 1836 reeded edge Proof $28,000; 1853-O without arrows or rays, Very Fine $40,000; 1854 Proof $21,000; 1856 Proof $16,000; 1861 Proof $6,000; 1866-S without motto, Choice Brilliant Uncirculated $22,000; 1873-CC without arrows, Choice Uncirculated $30,000; 1876 Proof $3,500; 1877 Proof $6,000; and a 1916 Liberty walking Uncirculated $2,400.

Patterns

Pattern half dollars were in strong demand and brought the following prices (attributed to the Judd reference, "U.S. Patterns"): 1838 J-73 $6,000; 1838 J-76A

$9,000; 1838 J-79 $11,500; 1839 J-95 $17,500; 1872 Amazonian, J-1200, $23,000; 1877 J-1501 $25,000; 1877 J-1503 $12,500; 1877 J-383 $15,000; 1877 J-1520 $25,000; 1877 unlisted variety, similar to

J-1534 but struck in silver, $32,500; 1877 J-1535 $24,000; and an 1879 J-1597 $17,000. An 1866 aluminum Proof set consisting of 16 pieces from the cent through the double eagle, all struck in aluminum and in the original presentation case, sold for $40,000.

Gold

Gold dollars brought the following prices: 1850-O AU $4,600; 1854-S AU $6,750; 1854 Type II Brilliant Proof $90,000; 1858-D Extremely Fine, $2,700; 1860 Proof $9,000; 1861 Proof $12,500; 1865 Proof $17,000; 1866 Proof $10,000; 1873 Proof $8,500; 1874 Proof $15,000; 1877 Proof $12,500; and an 1880 Proof $8,750.

Three dollar gold pieces started with the 1854 Proof which sold for $45,000. Shortly thereafter an 1860 Proof brought $21,000; an 1861 brought $25,000; an 1865 was knocked down to a new buyer for $40,000; a Proof 1866 brought $34,000; a Proof 1873 sold for a staggering $44,000; an 1874 Proof broke all records at $42,000; an 1876 brought $27,000; an 1877 drew $35,000; and numerous other records were realized.

There were two examples of the $4 gold stella in the sale. The first, an 1879 with coiled hair, brought $115,000. The second, an 1880 with flowing hair, found a new home at $65,000.

In the half eagle series record after price record were shattered as eager bidding competition drove prices to new levels. A 1795 with small eagle reverse, AU, brought $60,000; a 1798 with small eagle reverse, one of just 7 specimens known to exist, Extremely Fine, sold for $110,000; an Uncirculated 1809/8 brought $25,000; an 1810 in the same condition brought $14,000; the famous 1815 half eagle in AU grade stopped the show temporarily at $150,000; to be followed by an 1818 Uncirculated at $22,000; an 1819 in the same grade at $85,000; an 1824 Uncirculated at $47,500; an 1828 AU at $70,000; and an 1829 large planchet, Uncirculated, at a run-away $165,000. The 1829 small planchet half eagle, AU, brought $65,000; an 1834 with motto, Uncirculated, brought $34,000; and these other prices were obtained: 1838-D EF $2,800; 1839-C AU $16,000; 1839-D EF $3,500; 1860 Proof $18,000; 1865 Proof $21,000; 1866 Proof $23,000; 1873 Proof $21,000; 1874 Proof $26,000; 1876-S gem Uncirculated sold for many multiples of catalogue at a cost of $34,000; 1877 Proof $21,000; 1879 Proof $16,000; 1880 Proof $18,000; 1891 Proof $11,500; 1892 Proof $10,000; 1908 Proof $24,000; 1909 Proof $23,000; 1910 Proof $19,000; 1911 Proof $18,000; 1912 Proof $26,000; 1913 Proof $19,000; 1914 Proof $24,000; and a 1915 Proof $27,000.

Territorials

The rare Templeton Reid quarter eagle in VF grade sold for $47,500, followed by $200,000 realized for the exceedingly rare $5 issue by the same coiner.

Clark, Gruber & Co. likewise broke into new ground on virtually every occasion that pieces crossed the auction block. An 1860

Uncirculated quarter eagle brought $12,000; an 1860 half eagle in the same grade brought $9,000; an 1860 eagle in AU condition brought $6,400; and $40,000 was realized for the 1860 double eagle in AU grade.

The rare John Parsons & Co. quarter eagle, Very Fine, brought $85,000. A half eagle of the same issue, Very Fine, fetched $100,000, to be followed quickly by a $5 piece of Conway, EF, which sold for the same price.

Colonials and the States

Coins of the states and of colonial America elicited a wide range of interest. A 1785 Uncirculated Vermont copper, Ryder-2, brought $6,800; an AU 1788 R-23 was knocked down for $10,000; and other pieces sold for record valuations.

In the Massachusetts coinage the unique 1776 "Janus" copper brought $40,000. An Uncirculated 1788 half cent brought $4,500; an Uncirculated 1787 cent brought $5,000; and an even finer Uncirculated 1787 cent brought $10,000.

Among New York copper coins there were many records. A 1786 Non Virtute Vici, EF, brought $12,000; a nearly Uncirculated 1787 Nova Eborac fetched $8,750; a 1787 Excelsior with eagle on globe facing left, AU, brought $17,500; a rare 1787 Excelsior with transposed arrows, Very Fine, brought $26,000; a 1787 Indian with New York reverse, EF, brought $21,000; a similar specimen but with the eagle on globe reverse, AU, brought $37,000; and an example of the famous Clinton copper, Very Fine, sold for $29,000.

A 1787 New York Immunis Columbia copper struck over a New Jersey issue, Uncirculated, brought $21,000, followed by a 1787 Indian copper with George III reverse at $20,000.

Among the most important offerings in the sale were the unique 1783 silver Nova Constellatio patterns, two of which traced their ancestry to Charles Thomson, secretary of the Continental Congress. An example of the silver bit brought $97,500; an example of the quint sold for $165,000; another variety of the quint brought $55,000; and the famous mark sold for $190,000.

When all was said and done, $7,069,650 worth of coins found new buyers.

The next scheduled sale in the Garrett Collection will be held in Los Angeles, California, March 26-28, 1980. Q. David Bowers, president of Bowers & Ruddy Galleries, advises that participation in the Garrett Collection sale can be several ways. As copies of certain publications are becoming quite limited, offers are made on a first-come, first-served basis. For $95 a complete collector's package is available consisting of hard-bound library editions of each of the four Garrett catalogues as they are issued, duplicate soft-bound copies for use as working copies, and a copy of the reference book concerning the collection, "The History of United States Coinage as illustrated by the Garrett Collection," a $210 package. Request should be made for the "special Garrett Collector package" when ordering. The reference book alone can be obtained for $37 postpaid.

Woodward and Garrett

An Historical Study

by Carl W.A. Carlson, N.L.G.
ANA 95735

Returning home from this sale, Woodward found a letter from Garrett and replied on January 1, 1883: "I am just home from N.Y. and find your favor of the 26th inst. awaiting me. Inclosed please find bill of coins retained which I believe is correct. You mention:

B. the decoration

H. the double Sovereign

N. the French piece of 1848

P. Nap. 20 Francs

as amongst the pieces returned. They were not in the box, hence I conclude that after writing me you decided to retain them."

This last comment introduced a problem which recurs in several later letters. Garrett apparently wrote to say he had included the four pieces. On Jan. 6, Woodward replied: "I have your favor of Jan. 4th inclosing check for $320.23. [Settlement on invoices of 12/7 and 12/19]

"Concerning the 4 pieces missing, I have to say the package which should have contained them arrived promptly, the seals were unbroken and undisturbed and the package was opened by cutting the string, the coins were examined immediately, and compared with the list, the four pieces were not there, and neither I nor anyone in my employ has seen them. [He sounds a bit irritated; could Garrett have implied that Woodward lost the pieces?] On another sheet I give you a detailed description of the pieces, and request that you will look through your collection to see if they are not mislaid, and if not found that you will cause further investigation to be made of the affair, for it is positively certain that they were never placed in the box returned to me.

"While I state these facts thus plainly I beg to assure you that I have not the slightest suspicion of any wrong doing on your part, but an unfortunate mistake has occurred somewhere and it is simply impossible that it happened here for the coins were examined, checked, and deposited in my safe in the box as received immediately on their arrival, where they remained undisturbed until the bill was made out when they were examined and again checked, and the bill made accordingly.

"These things are not my property, they belong to a gentleman in San Francisco [Dohrmann?] to whom I account for them net, charging him nothing for my trouble in the sale, and here I may say that the lot of French gold at $200 is the property of the same man, and if you will take the trouble to refer to my letters you will observe that I have adhered to the price of $200 and have explained to you that that was the owner's lowest net price, the sum which I have to pay him. And now as to the discount which you mention as to be '10% on the French gold,' if you will refer to my letter you will notice that it refers wholly to the first lot shipped to you [12/7] concerning which you had written me asking for a discount. On receiving your letter I wrote immediately to the owner in N.Y. making the same request, his answer was, 'I will allow you 10% discount if the entire lot is kept but if only a part is taken can only allow 5%,' and the terms which I proposed to you, you will find on examination were the same. [After implying that Woodward had lost the missing pieces, Garrett apparently tried to slip in a further reduction on the price of the French collection!]

"I have mislaid the original invoice and am unable to say whether the Ducat of 1685 should be $4.50 or $5.50. I gave the owner credit for it at $4.50. I have asked him for a new statement; when received, if there is an error I will inform you.

"Since I wrote you yesterday I have partly arranged for the purchase of a superb collection of American gold from which, if I succeed in buying it, I can probably supply any piece required of date prior to 1835 with the exception of 1815 Half Eagle. The collection is a very celebrated one which I once owned and is remarkable for completeness and quality.

"Description of missing coins sent Mr. T.H. Garrett Dec. 19, 1882:

- B. Military Decoration in solid gold and cost $35. For heliotype representation see plate inclosed.
- H. Double Sovereign of George IV. This piece will be recognized by a small perforation above the head which on the reverse goes through the third figure of the date. The hole has been filled.
- N. A Five Franc piece of the Republic of France, a variety I have never met with before and presumed to be a pattern.
- P. A Twenty Franc piece of Napoleon possessing, I think, no peculiarity by which it can be identified."

The last paragraph of the letter proper introduces one of the most important transactions in the entire Garrett correspondence, surpassing the acquisition from Frossard of the Bushnell/Parsons Colonial pieces we observed in the Frossard-Garrett letters. Interestingly enough, this transaction took place at almost exactly the same time as the first group of Parsons pieces (and a massive foreign selection) were being sent to Garrett by Frossard—the second half of January, 1883.

Further information and another coin shipment came on Jan. 11: "Failing to secure two lots of large silver coins which I hoped to get, I send you the few that I have.

"The Double Dollar of Luther I think is very scarce and this is a very fine one.

"No. 48, the 10 Franc piece of Geneva, is the only one I have ever seen. It is particularly rare and beautiful.

"No. 49 is perhaps out of the scope of your collection. I send it because it is massive and of admirable workmanship.

"The Roman Coins from 12 to 28 taken as a lot I think are remarkably cheap and I believe would bring more money than is asked for them.

"The same remark applies to the remaining numbers 29 to 39, but, of course, they are not so rare. The Roman gold does not belong to me, and I am limited in my time to respond on it, otherwise I should have waited to hear from you. As to your wants in American gold, I have not for years been able to offer such an assortment of rarities as I happen to have now in my control, but which I am sorry to say are not mine, and are offered to me with the contingency that they may be sold to somebody else at any time. The lot contains about everything rare or otherwise up to 1834 except the ½ Eagle of 1815, one of the 20's, and a ¼ Eagle of '96 with stars. As soon as I hear from you I will secure for you what you want provided it is not too late."

A list of coins shipped followed this:

12	Aureus, Nero	$15.00
14	Vespasian	15.00
18	Trajan	12.50
19	Hadrian	12.00
25	Valens	7.00
28	Honorius	7.50
29	Constantine X	8.00
30	Valentinianus	8.00
31	Theodorus	8.00
35	Justinus	7.50
38	Constantine X	8.00
39	Constantine X	8.00
40	Quintuple Crown	31.50
41	Triple Crown	15.00
42	Triple Crown	15.00
43	Double Crown, Brunswick & Lunenburg	12.00
44	Double Crown, Leopold & Claudia	9.00
45	Sede Vacante Medal, Double Crown	7.00
46	Luther Double Dollar	8.00
47	Medal, Crown, Gustavus Adolphus	4.00
48	10 Francs, Geneva	15.00
49	Spanish Medal	5.00

Of these, Garrett took numbers 14, 18, 19, 28, 29, 30, 40, 41, 46, 48, and 49. The Roman gold coins (at least the first three) are still in the Garrett Collection: the Vespasian, BMC p. 80, No. 395, has Titus & Domitian on horseback on the reverse; the Trajan, BMC p. 90, No. 425, is a Genius reverse; and the Hadrian, BMC p. 249, No. 75, has a bust of Sol on reverse. By elimination (all others of those denominations being attributed) the Quintuple Crown must be Lunenburg, either 1638 or 1647 (both just marked "THG") while the Triple Crown is also from Lunenburg, 1685, the Lute Player type. The 10 Francs from Geneva is the huge silver one of 1851, in proof! The Spanish Medal is a problem: it probably perished with most of T. Harrison Garrett's medals in the great Baltimore Fire of 1904.

The great U.S. gold deal moved into high gear on January 17: "The affidavit inclosed was prepared on the day I received your letter, but thinking it better to have it acknowledged under the seal of a Court of Record, a day's delay occurred, and then wishing to write you about the American gold I have held back my letter till now. [Affidavit concerned the lost four pieces and just repeated previous information.]

"Today I have seen the owner and he declines any arrangement unless I purchase outright $725 worth, so that I fear I shall not be able to supply you with the required pieces.

"This letter, which you will receive tomorrow, will explain a telegram which leaves here at this moment. My reason for telegraphing is I am compelled to give my final answer today as the man leaves Boston tonight and takes the gold with him, and if you send word that you will take the pieces I will buy the lot and take my chances . . ."

Western Union Message, Woodward to Garrett, 1/17/83: "... Will you take Half Eagles Ninety Six, Ninety Seven, Eighteen Two, Three, Nineteen, Twenty One, Twenty Four, Six, Seven, Eight, Nine; Quarter Eagles Eighteen

Half Eagle, 1798, Small Eagle. Ex W.S. Appleton, ex J.J. Mickley. Woodward, 1/18/83.

Five, Six, Twenty Six. All Fine, some nearly Proof. Two Hundred Dollars. Answer Immediately—Owner Just Leaving Boston . . ."

And on Jan. 18: "Yesterday morning the man who owned the gold told me that he would leave town last night, but should be at a store in the City till 6 P.M. Your message arrived late. I went in town in search of my party, found that he had left, but suspecting he might have deferred his journey on account of the storm, I went over to Brookline where I thought he might be, and had the good luck to find my surmise correct, and, to make a long story short, bought the entire collection.

"I think I mentioned to you that I once owned the collection, but a much more interesting fact I did not mention: the pieces formed the gold cabinet of Joseph J. Mickley. After purchasing his coins I sold the gold collection entire and it has not come back to me.

"Living close to the Mint and beginning early, Mr. Mickley had facilities for collecting superior to any other person, and he knew well how to avail himself of them. With one possible exception I do not believe that for quality the collection can be equalled. They will average about like the pieces concerning which I telegraphed you, which, I doubt not you will agree with me, are much better than the terms of my message led you to expect.

"As I feel sure you would like to see them whether you buy them or not, I have picked out and send to you for examination (and purchase if you want them) the most remarkable pieces, remarkable either for rarity or condition.

"The package of coins came safely and I inclose memorandum of those retained by you. [from the Jan. 11 shipment.] . . ."

"List of American Gold sent Mr. T.H. Garrett on Approval, Jan. 18, 1883:

A	1797 Half Eagle, 15 Stars. The 16 Star variety, the rarer of the two, I put in your lot. This is also uncommonly rare.	$ 25.00
B	1795 Half Eagle with the Large Eagle reverse, nearly Proof and amongst the rarest of the rare.	40.00
C	1798 Half Eagle, Small Eagle reverse. With the exception of this piece I never saw but one other (that I sold for $125.) I think it not less rare than the 1815.	100.00
D	1799 Half Eagles, one having large and the other small stars in the constellation around the eagle's head on the reverse. Either one (2 pieces)	15.00
E	1806 Half Eagle, variety in the date in the figure 6. Either one (2 pieces)	8.00
F	1810 Half Eagles, different dies. Either one (2 pieces)	8.00
G	1820 Half Eagle. I put in on account of its magnificent condition	25.00
H	1830 Half Eagle. I put in for the same reason.	25.00
I	1797 Quarter Eagle. The rarest of the series and said to be the finest existing specimen. I believe all that are known show the break in the die. I send this piece at the price which it was invoiced to me.	75.00
K	1797 Eagle, small eagle reverse, four stars facing, condition splendid, and the rarest variety of the Eagles.	35.00
L	1798, '99, 1801, '03 Eagles. Sent on acct. of superior quality. Either one (4 pieces)	18.00
M	1821 Quarter Eagle, Proof. I cannot find a record of the sale of this piece.	20.00
N	1827 Quarter Eagle, nearly Proof.	12.00

From this magnificent list Garrett kept: A; B; C; D (the large stars one); K; and both the 1799 and the 1801 Eagles from L. This, of course, was in addition to the telegraphed group of January 17th: Half Eagles of 1796, 1797, 1802, 1803, 1819, 1821, 1824, 1826, 1827, 1828, and 1829; and Quarter Eagles of 1805, 1806 and 1826. Not a bad bit of work for two days of purchasing! In addition, lot I above, the superb 1797 Quarter Eagle which Garrett turned down at $75, came to him at $65 from H.P. Newlin in October of 1884 after Newlin bought it from Woodward for that amount. (It is illustrated on p. 272 of The Numismatist, February, 1976, and also in David Akers' "U.S. Quarter Eagles.") The 21 pieces he took at this time cost him a total of $451.00! The 1978 Red Book prices for these pieces, in their proper grades, come to $138,400, not including the 1798 Small Eagle Half Eagle, VF; 1819 Half Eagle, Unc.; 1827 Half Eagle, Unc.; and the 1829 Large Date Half Eagle, Unc., none of which are priced in the book.

The Mickley pedigree adds further lustre, if that be possible, to these incredible pieces. Yet that is not the only famous name in their history: as Woodward remarked, he had sold the collection of Mickley's gold in its entirety to one man at the time he purchased Mickley's other coins in 1867. The correspondence gives us no help in determining the name of this collector who held these pieces for some sixteen years prior to the transaction we have just observed. Fortunately, however, Woodward himself had published, in the July, 1880, issue of The American Journal of Numismatics, a list, with commentary, of the auction sales he had conducted from his first in 1860 up to his 30th in June of 1880. His comments on the 17th Sale, the Mickley Collection, begin: "The collection of Joseph J. Mickley, which needs no introduction to the American numismatist. The catalogue comprised all of the American portion except the gold, which was sold to Mr. Appleton . . ." This was, of course, William Sumner

Title page of the Joseph J. Mickley Collection offering, owned by W. Elliot Woodward, a Massachusetts dealer, and sold at auction in 1867. Mickley was the most prominent early 19th century numismatist in America. Memorable among his accomplishments was the purchase at face value in 1827 of four proof quarters from the Philadelphia Mint. Today each one is an extreme rarity.

Appleton of Boston, the famous numismatist whose collection (obviously minus the gold) formed the heart of the Massachusetts Historical Society's collection.

Garrett acted promptly, returning the unpurchased lots on Jan. 22. (He needed to clear things out; the huge shipment of Jan. 19 from Frossard had reached him.) Woodward replied on the 23rd: "Your favor of Jan. 22d reached me this morning. The package has not yet arrived but doubtless it will be here tomorrow. As requested, I inclose full statement of your account which I trust you will find correct."

"I will look out for you for Half Eagles 1802 @ 3 plain dates if such exist. It is certainly strange if they do not, and yet I do not find either of them in the catalogues to which I have referred though I find the overdates."

"I have been looking up the subject of 1815 ½ Eagles. I know of one abroad [Stockholm] and am pretty certain there are three in this country. I knew of one in N.Y. some 20 years ago which I have lost the trace of and am not certain whether it is one of the three referred to. If it is, the number known is four; if it is not, there must be five. I am now trying to purchase one but if I get it shall have to pay $250. I once offered for the one referred to as in N. York $400 cash on behalf of Mr. W.A. Lilliendahl. My offer was declined and I never heard directly of the piece afterwards . . ."

The summary of Garrett's account covers the shipments since Jan. 11. As we shall see, a number of corrections and revisions were necessary to this bill as it first came. We might, however, note here one item: "Balance on Bill Dec. 19, 1882, Lots B, N, P, & H $42.50." Garrett apparently agreed to pay for those four lots which were lost at his end, or else found them and decided to keep them.

On January 25: "I mailed you a letter late last evening, and this morning hasten to correct an error into which I fell."

"The coins came safely last night and I then discovered that in your letter I mistook an "N" for an "A," hence in the bill I charged one in place of the other. Please find inclosed an amended bill. [This was a two-line amendment, substituting Lot A (1797 Half Eagle at $25) for Lot N (1797 Quarter Eagle) on the main bill. Net cost of bill thus increased by $13.]

"Last night I had a talk with a man whose knowledge of American gold is very extensive and he gave it as his opinion that all the 1801 @ 2 ½ Eagles are overstrikes or altered dates, but afterwards said that possibly one might be found with a plain date . . ." [Of course, he meant to put 1802 & 1803!]

Garrett may have made a mistake regarding those four missing lots for which he had to pay, but the shoe was soon on the other foot. On January 30: "Your favor of Jan. 27th duly received with remittance $625.75 for which I am very much obliged."

"There is a mistake in regard to the dispatch sent you Jan. 17th [the Western Union telegram offering the gold coins]. The rough draft I have before me, it was taken to the office by my assistant and there written on a blank. The amount named was intended to be $250."

"Today I will obtain a copy of the original dispatch, and if I find the mistake was ours I have not a word to say, for I would stand by my word if the sum named was but $2 instead of $200; if the dispatch proves correct I shall send you a copy and request your kind assistance, in case the mistake is chargeable to the Telegraph Co., in establishing that fact."

"P.S.: I think there is only one 1815 ½ Eagle that can be bought, and the price fixed on that is $250. I know about the sale you refer to. I think the price was $150 but the sale was a sham. If you would like this piece, please let me know and I will obtain it for you. I have not seen it but the owner, who is an excellent judge, says it is uncirculated . . ."

And further, on Feb. 1: "I have just rec'd. a little invoice of Ancient gold coins and, as I propose to do while it is agreeable to you, I give you first chance at them. There are only a few, but several of them are very fine and two or three I am informed are quite rare. I send no list as each envelope is marked. [But THG added a list at the top of the letter in his own hand: 16 pieces, including a Chinese Chop Dollar, three medals, and a 1786 Double Crown. He kept Aurei of Valens, Theodosius I, Theodosius II, Anastasius, Justinian and Tiberius Constantine, a total of $56.50, receipted by WEW on Feb. 8, with a note written by THG on back of the receipt: "The 1815 ½ Eagle is too high at $250."]

"It is rather difficult to obtain a copy, I find, of a telegram, but I shall presently obtain one mentioned in my last letter and will forward to you.

"P.S. I have just succeeded in seeing the telegram as transcribed by my assistant and find that the offer, to you, as telegraphed, was $200. The original draft as I made it was $250. No fault of the Company in telegraphing, and you are correct." [We can bet that Woodward's assistant worked off that $50 on half pay!]

And finally, on Feb. 8: "Please find inclosed bill of coins retained from last invoice. Thank you this time and all others for the prompt return of those not wanted, which greatly facilitates my business.

"I congratulate you sincerely on the good bargain you got on the lot of American gold coins that I telegraphed you about. My luck was not quite so good but I have nothing to say.

"I can get an 1815 ½ Eagle but the owner is stiff at $250. It is the same one once put into an auction and bid in at $150. If you want the piece I will get it for you at any time . . ."

A new series of transactions began with Woodward's letter of Feb. 24, 1883: "I have a few remarkably fine pieces of Roman gold which, thinking you would be glad to see, I send for your examination. They do not belong to me and the price seems rather high, but perhaps it is not, taking into consideration their remarkable condition. On the four pieces marked 160, 200, 210 & 220 I can make a reduction of 5%, and these are the only ones that strike me as any way dear.

"I avail myself of the opportunity to send you some American gold which I have just bought. Many of the pieces are common, though it is always hard to pick up a date that is wanted. If you need the pieces you will not object to the prices; many of them you will observe are marked at little more than a nominal advance [that is, over face value.]

"P.S.: I have sets of gold proofs for 1862-'64-'65, each 6 pcs., par value each $41.50. They cost in gold when issued $43 each at a period when gold was worth anywhere from 1.20 to 2.85. Gold being so very dear at the time, the number issued was very limited, probably not above ½ a dozen, especially of '64 and '65. Counting interest, they must stand the man of whom I bought them at over $300 a set. I offer them to you at $48 a set, the offering being contingent on their not being sold before I hear from you."

The comment about the premium on gold in the 1860's perhaps requires some further amplification. As the Federal Government needed every bit of gold it could get during the Civil War to meet foreign obligations, the paper money issues from 1861 on were instituted to relieve the pressure on domestic economic functions. The populace, however, did not regard these paper issues as really being worth their face value in gold which consequently cost considerably more than equivalent face value to purchase in the marketplace during those years. Woodward says the exchange rate on a gold dollar ranged from $1.20 to $2.85 in paper money during that period; this obviously was not the official government rate which claimed parity when it paid paper for gold (it would not, however, sell gold at par for its own paper), but rather what it would cost a citizen to acquire gold from those private parties who had it.

A further confirmation of the exchange or discount rate Woodward cites may be found in the American Journal of Numismatics for July, 1883, p. 20, where, in a review of Woodward's May Sale (to which we will come in due course), the reviewer mentions in connection with the 1864 McCoy Sale "... and taking into account the fact that gold then bore an immense premium—an eagle being worth some $28 in greenbacks..." Federal paper issues thus discounted probably included: Demand Notes of 1861; Legal Tender issues of 1862 and 1863; Compound Interest Notes, 1863-4; Interest-bearing Notes of 1863, the 1-, 2-, and 3-year types; and perhaps the very earliest issues of National Bank Notes in 1865. Note also that Woodward comments the proof sets cost $43 in gold at that time: not only did one have to pay in gold for the face value of the gold coins in the proof set, one also had to pay the striking charge of $1.50 per set in gold. A set thus could have cost the purchaser up to $122 in paper money, which, counting 5% interest per year since 1865, would be about $293 per set invested by 1883, so Woodward's estimate of the level of actual cost to the former owner is correct! Obviously, he bought them for a small increase over issue price if he is offering them to Garrett for $48 per set. Garrett finally bought two sets; one was certainly 1865, the other probably 1864.

From this list Garrett kept: No. 2, 1860 $5 of Clark, Gruber & Co.; No. 9 and No. 11, the 1855 and 1856 $3 pieces; No. 17, 1863 $3; No. 33, 34, 35, and 36, Quarter Eagles of 1850 through 1853; and four pieces from No. 38, Quarter Eagles of 1855, 1867, 1870 and 1871. It is possible that the 1855 and 1856 $3 pieces were the Proofs sold in Stack's Garrett Sale, Lots 393 and 394, since those two pieces were attributed only to "THG" in the original inventory listings, but one rather expects Woodward would have commented on them if they were Proofs. The 1863 $3 was replaced in another transaction later in 1883, as we shall see. All the Quarter Eagles were later disposed of or replaced by finer specimens; those disposed of without replacement were almost certainly circulated and Garrett later decided they did not fit the collection. The one piece which deserves major comment which was not purchased was the 1841 Quarter Eagle, No. 25 on the list: unless this was a branch mint issue which Woodward mislisted, it must have been one of the very rarest pieces which ever escaped the notice of two such advanced numismatists as Garrett and Woodward.

Another list of pieces sent to Garrett, any original letter accompanying it having been lost over the years, came on Feb. 28:

1	1800 Eagle	$18.00

55	Ten one dollar pieces, each	1.10
	2 Gold Proof Sets, each	48.00

From this new list, obviously further selections from the same source as the previous shipment, Garrett kept: No. 1, 1800 Eagle; No. 13, 1806 ½ Eagle, probably Pointed 6; No. 14, 1807 ½ Eagle, old type; No. 16, 1808 ½ Eagle; No. 18, 1811 ½ Eagle; No. 19, 1812 ½ Eagle; No. 26, 1834 ½ Eagle, new type, "Proof," actually p/l unc.; No. 32, 1850 "C" ½ Eagle; No. 49, 1854 Eagle; and the gold proof sets mentioned earlier, probably 1864 and 1865. Of these pieces, Nos., 1, 13, 14, 18, 19 and 26, as well as the proof sets, were still in the collection in 1975. The 1808 ½ Eagle was replaced by a better one from the Maris Collection Sale in 1886. No. 32 and No. 49, presumably well circulated, seem to have been disposed of by Garrett at a later date, perhaps when he was thinning out pieces in 1884. There are receipts from Woodward for pieces from both these lists, the first dated March 3 and the second, March 8, 1883. Woodward had not (in surviving letters) mentioned, up to this time, the name of the former owner of the pieces on these lists, but it certainly was not Mickley.

Further information on the former owner of the gold in these last two shipments was forthcoming in the next letter, March 10, 1883: "I attended the Fowle Sale [H.D. Fowle Collection, sold by Sullivan, 3/7-9/83] all through and succeeded in getting a fair proportion of what you ordered. Prices ruled very high. Most of the things missed on your bids were bought by a party on unlimited orders; what I did secure, though, was able to make a large saving on, and I feel certain you will be pleased with the purchases."

"Thursday night a man leaving the sale for Phila. grabbed up my goods instead of his own, and carried them home. The mistake was discovered at once here and by him and they will be back in Boston today. As the porters at the Auction Room know nothing of packing coins I shall have yours sent to me and I will pack them carefully and forward them on Tuesday.

"I mailed you a catalogue of a sale to take place in N. York, Mar. 16-17. [H.P. Smith's Historical Collection Sale] You will notice that it contains a wonderful collection of Papal Medals. I wish I could be at the sale but cannot, but I shall be represented there by a judicious buyer who attends to all my orders without expense, and if you desire to send any orders they will be taken on the same terms. This service is rendered me by a friend who attends all the sales, for whom I am occasionally able to do a favor, so there is really no special obligation about it.

"I bought from my old friend Mr. Taylor his rare and desirable pieces in the silver and copper series several years ago. The gold I bought recently, and you have had a view of it, I think of every desirable piece. His collection did not contain the 1831 ½ Eagle, but I have recently parted with one, to whom I cannot say. I will try and find you one . . ."

This last named collector, Robert Taylor of Baltimore, simply has to be the source of the gold coins sent with the lists of February 24 and 28. Woodward's 27th Sale, 3/9/80 (from which, as we saw, Garrett secured his 1833 ½ Eagle) had included the Robert Taylor silver and copper pieces. From the Fowle Collection Sale, at which Woodward was bidding as Garrett's agent, numerous pieces were acquired, largely if not exclusively foreign, including:

Papal, Pius IX, 1853 gold scudo
Baden, Leopold, 1848 2 Gulden
Brandenburg, Frederick Christian,
1767 Ducat
Wolffenbuttel, Charles, 1829 24
Groschen
Eichstadt, Sede Vacante, 1781 Thaler
Frankfurt, 1843 2 Thalers
Saxe-Alt-Gotha-Coburg-Eisenach,
1618 Thaler

Russia, Alexander I, 1805 Rouble
Austria, Francis I, 1810 Thaler
Olmütz, 1820 ½ Thaler
Utrecht, 1762 Ducatoon.

It is also interesting to note Woodward actually sent Garrett the auction catalogue of a rival firm and offered the free use of his own agent in case Garrett cared to bid on anything in that sale. Garrett did, in fact, acquire some pieces from that sale, presumably through Woodward's friend, including the 1865 Pattern Two Cent, Judd 407.

Another interesting topic arose in Woodward's letter of March 13: "I was fortunate enough to get your box started last night, and the medals (which are in beautiful preservation as a general rule) I inclosed in separate papers and think they will reach you safely. Many of the things missed were bought by a party on unlimited orders so that no reasonable offer could have bought them. A few I missed by accident (the auctioneers sold with great rapidity), a few more, perhaps two or three, bid on by you I bought for a little collection of my own; this, however, made no difference to you as I would have paid considerably more for them than I did.

"I avail myself of the opportunity to send you a lot of coins for examination recently received from Germany. [Note Woodward's frequent contacts with the European dealers; perhaps even more extensive than those of Frossard!] I suppose the lot contains some curious and desirable things. The coins of the Longobardi I do not believe can be found in any American collection, and considering their rarity they seem to me cheap. A single one is sometimes found, as you are aware, but I think they are all very rare. I had not time to prepare an invoice, and the marked envelopes render one unnecessary. [But very frustrating since we cannot discover just what Woodward sent without an invoice!]

"The Fractional Currency in the sale all went to a dealer who informs me that he can get from 10¢ to 25¢ for each piece. You will find in the box sent you probably the largest and finest collection of this currency which exists. It was formed during the War by a gentleman in Phila. That, with a double set of the Fractional Currency of the U.S., he sold for $1200. It was for a long time offered to me, with the Fractional, first for $1000, then for $900. The Fractional, which was valued at $200, was finally sold and subsequently I purchased this collection at a greatly reduced price. I now send it to you on approval, feeling sure you will be glad to look it over if you do not wish to buy it. As to quality the collection needs no commendation, and as for duplicating it or forming one of similar magnitude I think it would be impossible. The price is $250 . . ."

This is the first paper money correspondence between Garrett and Woodward, and is of substantial interest. Note that Woodward makes a careful distinction between U.S. Fractional Currency (the Federal Government issues) and the major part of the collection which consisted of fractional currency of another sort. This must have been a collection of the privately issued fractional scrip which made its appearance around 1862 in vast quantities around the northern states due to the severe shortage of small change during the war. Though there was substantial interest in this new collecting field during the period of, and shortly after, the Civil War (just as there was during the same period for the collecting of the store cards and tokens issued for the same purpose in the same era), much of that interest died away in the later years of the 19th century. It has returned in force at the present time, and such a collection today would be worth a substantial sum. It is also interesting to note that such a collection would certainly have included the scrip issues put out by Woodward himself from his business, the Mount Pleasant Apothecary Store in Roxbury, Massachusetts, notes which are well known today though mostly as unsigned remainders. Woodward was about the only numismatic dealer of the Civil War period who ran a store which issued such scrip, and in its signed specimens it is a pleasant souvenir of this famous numismatist.

On March 13, Garrett received a receipt from Woodward for $214.75 for purchases in the Fowle Collection Sale, plus $1 for packing.

Further paper money offers arose on March 17: "Your favors, one of which inclosed check for $287.75 for which I am much obliged, both came to hand today.

"I think, with you, that the coins sent are high priced but unfortunately they are not my own and I get but a moderate commission for selling them. I am unable to abate anything from the price, I wish I could. [Note that Garrett's usual price-reduction requests did not get too far with Woodward, unlike those we saw with Newlin and Frossard.]

"My remarks concerning price do not fairly apply to the whole lot, for I think that many are reasonable, and some very cheap.

"Have you the 1826 ½ Eagle? I can answer the question myself, I think I remember I sold you one. It is a very rare piece and I expect to receive one today and thought I would offer it to you. [Garrett had, indeed, bought the Appleton/ Mickley specimen a couple months earlier from Woodward.]

"Do you collect Confederate Notes? I have the rarest note of the series, $500 of the Montgomery issue, also the $100 note, same issue, both extremely fine. A collector has the refusal of them but quite likely he will not take them . . ."

And again, on March 21: "I inclose the Confederate notes, the price of which is $50. I never owned one of the $500 before. The one sold in Dec. in the Maas Collection cost $45. I had a bid on it at $39 but bought it for $35. The one that I have is much finer than the one sold, indeed mine, as you will see, is nearly perfect. The other was fine, but by no means up to this.

"I think I gave you a part of the history of the collection of Fractional Currency. Some years ago it was offered to me, first with the U.S. Fractional, then just as it is, for what I thought an enormous price, I believe it was $800. I afterwards bought it at a great reduction, put it in one of my sales, it was bought by Mr. Burton for $150, and when I bought his collection it came back to me or rather to me and Mr. Haines [surely Ferguson Haines?] who purchased the collection with me, and at the Burton Sale I purchased the collection. Since then I have made no effort to sell it, thinking I would keep it myself, have offered it to one man only who wrote me the other day to know if I still retain it. The collection itself is unique. Many persons during the War, myself included, made collections of this currency. Mr. Wiggins of Boston also collected with a good deal of earnestness, but I do not think our combined collections comprised 400 pieces. This, I think, has nearly 2,000, and a lifetime would not suffice to get together another such collection now . . . P.S. Will have priced for you a Fowle Catalogue and send you also a Burton Catalogue with plates . . ."

The Burton Collection, Woodward's 42nd Sale, 10/26/81, was, by all reports, a most successful undertaking, U.S. coins and Fractional Currency both doing very well. No mention, however, seems to have been made in any published review of the sale that Ferguson Haines was Woodward's "silent partner" in the transaction. Such joint ventures were not uncommon during this period, but we have only vague hints of the membership of most of the combined groups involved.

Apparently Garrett bought the Confederate notes, for Woodward's letter of April 3rd reads: "For your remittance of $132.50 I am much obliged.

"Of course, I am not sure, but I believe you have got the best $500 Montgomery bill extant. I have been trying for 5 or 6 years to get those two bills, but could not succeed until a few days ago. They were sent to a friend of mine just after the War in payment of a debt with promise of redemption. My friend is dead and whether that redeemer lives or not I am not sure . . ."

In the following week, just to keep an eye on Garrett's other numismatic operations, came the H.P. Newlin Sale by Haseltine marking the beginning of Garrett's relationship with Newlin which was so fruitful. That was followed on April 12-13 by Cogan's sale of the J. Wily Aulick Collection from which Garrett acquired numerous fine specimens, including many proofs of silver denominations of the 1860's. Then, April 24-25 came the Hebbard Sale by Sampson, from which Garrett acquired many gold proof sets of the 1860's and 1870's. This period in 1883 was one of the most active in his entire numismatic career.

Woodward's letter of April 18 made further offers: "Your favor rec'd and the coins came safely to hand.

"So far as the prices are concerned they seem to me high but compared with an invoice I recieved today from Germany they are the "ne plus ultra" of moderation. However that may be, the margin on which I sell them is so small as scarcely to pay for handling, but ordering constantly from the people who sent them I occasionally pick up a good bargain which my customers get the benefit of.

"On the first invoice from which your purchases were made the owner makes a discount of 10% and I discount you from the invoice price 5%. The last 4 lots allow me no margin for this.

"I have a little collection-about 31 pcs: 25 of them are coins of the Knights of Malta ranging in size from the Taro to the Double Scudo; 6 are coins of the Crusaders. They are a very curious lot and are invoiced to me at $52.70. I paid $1 expense on them from Europe and am allowed a disc. of 10%. As a collection they are quite remarkable. Here, once in a while, we find a coin of this Order, but they occur only at intervals and I don't suppose that anybody in this country has so many as 30. If you would like this little collection at the net price of $52.70 I will send it to you. [From the inventory of the collection, Garrett did not take him up on this one.]

"An article on these coins you have probably noticed in the American Journal of Numismatics.

"Have you seen Appleton's article in the last number of the Journal on Italian Medals of the Renaissance Period? I am informed that some of these medals are bringing enormous prices in Europe. I have quite a number of them which came to me in the Lewis Coll. and I am holding them back till I can learn more about them."

A brief note on April 26 shows Garrett apparently trying to sell some of his duplicates: "I have been sick or should have answered your letter of the 24th before. You say 'send the two lots of coins for examination.' I shall send tomorrow the one lot (the Knights of Malta) and I confess I am so forgetful or stupid that I cannot call to mind the other lot to which you refer. [A delicious little statement, seeing that Woodward, in his earlier years, was noted as an expert in mnemonics, an author and frequent lecturer on the tricks of easy recall!]

"I am sorry I cannot be more liberal in my offer for the coins which you sent me. The Masonic Ducat and the ¼ Eagle of '65 are salable as coins, for the rest I have no market. For the gold I can allow $83, and for the medals $7.80. . . ." [This is our primary evidence that the 1865 gold proof set was one of the two Garrett recently purchased from Woodward. He is here trying to dispose of an extra 1865 ¼ Eagle.]

On April 30 the exchange continued: "I am just off for N.Y., but tomorrow will be sent to you your own lot of coins and the little lot of Ancient Italian. A full account of all these medals will be found in the Tresor Numismatique, the vol. described in my catalogue, No. 1079.

"As to the medals themselves, I am told that the series is attracting great attention in Europe, and that some of them sell for the enormous prices. Wholly ignorant of the value of mine, I am equally willing to sell them for $100 the lot or keeping them. They may be worth much more, and I do not know that they are worth $20. I am sure you will be interested in looking them over, and that will sufficiently reward me for sending them.

"You must not think me illiberal because I could not offer you more for the coins and medals which you sent me, but the truth is they are not adapted to my trade, and if I purchased I should have to use the bulk of the gold as currency, and only a few of the pieces having a numismatic value.

"I shall hope to hear from you at my sale in N.Y. this week . . ."

We might recall that Garrett tried to move some pieces on Frossard with similar ill luck, and that he once commented to Newlin that he was a bit afraid of buying patterns since he had had some bad experiences with them in the past.

The sale to which Woodward refers was his 55th, the Winslow Lewis and Mickley Collections (the remains of Mickley's gold after Garrett had first pick). From this sale Garrett acquired some notable pieces, both U.S. and foreign, including:

1870 Silver Dollar, Proof
1874 Trade Dollar, Proof
Proof Quarters of 1862 and 1863
Proof Dime of 1875
Proof ½ Dime & 3¢ Silver of 1854
George IV, Half Crown, 1820
Victoria, 1847 Gothic Crown, Proof
Pius IX, 1867 10 Lire
Russia, Platinum 6 Roubles of 1831

Another brief note, May 9: "Have just returned from N.Y. and Phila. and find your favors awaiting me, including two packages of coins and medals, for all of which I am much obliged.

"The rare gold which you have bought of me lately you secured just at the right time. The rare pieces of the American gold series, those that are strictly rare, are now commanding almost any price . . ."
[All reports of the Lewis/Mickley Sale stressed the incredibly high prices the gold coins were bringing there, which is particularly interesting when we note that most of the really rare pieces had been

"cherry-picked" by Garrett prior to the sale!]

Between this and the next letter intervened Haseltine's 69th Sale, The O.H. Berg Collection from Baltimore. This sale, noted already in the Frossard correspondence, was the source of the 1804 Dollar in the Garrett Collection.

On May 25 Woodward returned to the subject of the 1815 Half Eagle: "Please find inclosed bill of coins retained by you which I believe is correct. The last package of coins returned safely.

"When at my home, we had some talk about an 1815 Half Eagle. I have now got an 1815 ½ Eagle which will appear in my 58th Sale, June 25-26. The piece is very fine, it is also genuine and, so far as I am aware, there is but one other collection that contains a genuine specimen in this country. There is one in Sweden, and a gentleman who owned another is now dead and I think died possessed of the piece. I offered him $400 for it, he declined any less price than $500, and whether he ever parted with it or not I do not know. The four I mention I think complete the list of all known genuine specimens . . ."

Referring once more back to the correspondence between Garrett and Newlin, we should note that Newlin, in letters of October, 1883, states quite clearly that Woodward had two 1815 Half Eagles in his possession at one time about this period: the one later sold in the 58th Sale (which he mentions) and a finer one which he sold privately to H.P. Newlin. There was also another one, sold in Haseltine's 69th Sale, June 6, 1883, which Garrett bought and which Woodward felt was a fake. (Garrett later sent it back to Haseltine, apparently.) It would seem that Garrett was not yet the ultimate first-line customer for at least that date in rare gold, though Woodward carefully maintained silence about the existence of a better piece for the moment, doubtless hoping Garrett would bid on the one he planned to auction. Garrett did, indeed, acquire that one, as we shall see.

Some quick exchanges followed. June 6: "The loss of a Mss. ready for the printer which I was compelled to write a second time has kept me very busy since I received your favor. I find that Nos. 64, 65, 73, 45a and 40b were all returned to me. Please deduct them from the bill and excuse the error." [On June 12, Woodward sold the "Mexican Collection," his 56th Sale; among other pieces from it, Garrett acquired a lovely 1786 Vermontensium copper, Ryder 6.]

June 30: "Please find inclosed memorandum of coins retained by you which I trust will be found correct. I have just received from Europe a pretty nice lot of medals, and wishing you to see them, I have hastily packed them, classifying them only by prices as I have not time to do more, and send them for your examination, trusting they will reach you before you leave home . . . P.S. The bulk of the medals I send you I have never seen before. Some are very fine, and the price, I think, is little if any more than half of what such medals are selling for. I do not own them, they are sent as a consignment and the price being left for me I have taken good care to make it reasonable." There is also a receipted bill, July 6, for a total of 10 unspecified medals, total price $9.25, mentioned here out of time sequence since it clearly connects to these letters.

On June 25-26 Woodward held his 58th Sale, the Wm. J. Jenks Collection, in which Garrett bought the 1815 Half Eagle which he later traded to Newlin. He also acquired quite a number of valuable pieces besides this: Quarter Eagles of 1827, 1829, 1830, 1831 and 1833; 1836 Gobrecht Dollar, J.65; 1868 Silver Dollar, Proof; Quarters of 1844, 1847 and 1865; Charles II, England, 1673 Crown; Louis XV, 1719 Ecu; and several others. We may be missing a letter which would have accompanied these pieces.

The next surviving letter from Woodward, dated July 31, 1883, begins the last major transaction between the two men which is recorded in the correspondence file, though, as we shall see, individual letters of great importance remain from later years. The main topic of the July 31 letter was to occupy them for the next several months:

"I own, and shall have in my possession presently, 23 full Proof Sets of American gold, 1860 to 1883 inclusive, wanting only 1861. All, I believe are in perfect order, many of them in the papers in which they left the Mint. The early sets, as you are aware, cost $43 in gold when gold was worth from 1.20 to 2.85. I do not know what you or other collections may have, but I have never seen or heard of so extensive a line of American Proof gold."

"The entire set is for sale, and if you would like to buy it I will buy of you such sets, or what would be the same thing, retain such sets as you may have in your cabinet providing the number is small. The idea is this: I want the whole lot to go together, and while I would not like to break them up, would have no objection to having a few odd sets in stock. The lowest price for the whole line is $1500. If you do not purchase, please do me the favor not to mention that I have offered them to you. I spent a day in Baltimore lately and should have called on you had you been in the city . . ."

The matter of the gold proof sets was continued on August 18, 1883, in a letter both written and signed by a different hand than Woodward's, presumably that of his assistant: "Your favor of the 11th inst. duly received, but the coins mentioned as returned have not yet arrived. As the delay is unusual I write to let you know about it. I presume, though, they will come along all right.

"I send you by today's express a very remarkable little parcel. It contains a set of the 1879 Patterns as follows: 6 Silver Dollars; 3 Half Dollars; 2 Quarters; and 3 Dimes. I am informed that no other set ever left the Mint. They do not belong to me, and the owner will not sell them to me unless I pledge myself not to put them in an auction sale. This, of course, I will not do. The price of the set is $175; this is $25 off from the price that they were first offered to me at with the condition named.

"I send also 2 Pattern copper Dollars: one the Commercial Dollar by Barber, plain edge; the other the Commercial Dollar by Longacre, reeded edge. For this price, if I do not return them, I am to pay $75 net. If you buy them the price is 10% above what I have to pay, say $82.50.

"I am sorry you decided against the gold Proofs. I know of no similar collection. Appleton has none; Parmelee left off his series years ago; and I know of no collector who has anything approaching so full a line. Several of the sets are worth at least $75 or $80 each . . ."

Obviously Garrett was not interested in acquiring the entire package of gold proof sets. As we shall see from the next letter, however, he was most certainly interested in some of them.

August 31, 1883: "Please find inclosed amended bill. No. 41 was checked as returned but a blob of ink fell on the spot and the check was overlooked. No. 65 I was in hopes I had sent to you as it is missing, but I am satisfied it was not sent.

"About the Proof Sets, I have a pretty good offer for them as a whole, but have not accepted it. If you care to make me an offer on the different years separately please do so. I may say in advance, however, that the offer must be a pretty liberal one to be as advantageous as the one I already have. You are, of course, aware that three of the sets are excessively rare, particularly 1863 and 1876 . . ."

They continued the negotiation on Sept. 5: "Your favor received with draft for $17.50. Thank you.

"I made in behalf of a Western customer an offer for the Pattern Pieces, but the owner absolutely declines to take for the 1879 set anything under $150 net cash. He will take that sum but will allow me nothing. On the copper dollars he will make no discount.

"I wish to sell all the gold sets together, but if I break the series you shall have the first offer of such as you want.

"This is not an offer, for I am not prepared to make an offer, but fair prices would be about as follows, I think: 1860, $65; 1863, $85; 1866, $65; 1868, $65; 1870, $65; 1872, $65; 1873, the rarest set but one, $85; 1874, extremely rare, $80; 1875, the rarest set, $85. . ."

As we learn from Woodward's letter of Sept. 10, Garrett was still holding 1879 Patterns from mid-August: "I sent you today a remarkable collection of gold coins. They appear to me high, and I add nothing to the dealer's price. If I sell any I get a commission of 10%, no more. The coins referred to are in yellow, I was about to say, but I have changed them into white ones. [Envelopes, of course.]

"The eight silver coins 1½, 2 and 3 crown pieces, are from my own stock and I have made the prices, I think, very moderate on them.

"If you have determined not to keep the Pattern Sets will you be kind enough to put them in the package that you may return from this invoice."

On Sept. 18: "It has been so long since I wrote you about the 1879 Patterns that I have really forgotten what I did write. If you have decided to keep them, if you will have the kindness to refer to any letter and tell me I will make a bill to conform, or, if you please, you can remit for them and I will send a receipt.

"It is a matter of no consequence, but I have some curiosity on the subject: the last two packages returned by you have reached me with expressages unpaid. I would really like to know if you paid the expressages as I suspect the Express Co. collected their charge at both ends of the route."

It is likely that Garrett simply checked the price and sent a check to Woodward, as we have a receipted bill dated September 18, 1883, for two pieces from previous shipments and for the 1879 Pattern Set. All the pieces from that set can be identified from the Garrett Collection inventory: the dollars (all silver, as were the other denominations) were: J.1603, the Barber "Washlady"; J.1605; J.1608, the Morgan "Schoolgirl"; J.1611; J.1613; and J.1615; Half Dollars: J.1597, the "Washlady," J.1599, and J.1601; Quarters: J.1590, the "Washlady," and J.1593; and Dimes: J.1584, the "Washlady," J.1586, and J.1588. A particularly nice group for $175!

This was followed by the letter of October 8: "Thanks for your favor with remittance. I did not feel authorized to consider the Pattern Pieces sold without further instructions from you.

"I inclose two very desirable coins for your examination. I do not own either of them. The Silver Center Cent is the property of a correspondent in Cal. [Doubtless, Dohrmann.] The Non Vi, I am under the impression, is from abroad but I don't know. It is, with one exception, I think, the finest I have ever seen. The price of the Non Vi is $75; The Silver Center Cent $125. A former holder of the Silver Center priced it at $300. That price was far too much, but my price is low. I sent you today Catalogue of my next sale. [His 59th, the German Collection, sold Oct. 29.] It contains a great many things that seldom if ever appear here, especially among the large coins of Continental Europe. . ."

Once more on the proof sets, Oct. 13: "I have just received my gold Proof Sets, and write you about them as I promised to do.

"This is the whole story: I have a fair offer for the whole 23 sets which I have not accepted, and am open for an offer for the lot. You want 9 sets, if you will not buy the whole, if you will make me a fair offer for each one of the nine you do want, in case the other party who bids for the whole will take the remainder I will let you have the nine. As the man is anxious to know my decisions, will you oblige me with an answer at your earliest convenience.

"I am about beginning the catalogue of the Ely Collection. It has been a long time since so fine a cabinet was dispersed. It is very rich in Pattern Pieces and contains every Mint issue, I mean of date and denomination, except four"

Further transactions, Oct. 19: "I will send you this afternoon by Express a fine selection of coins. I send them in the original envelopes as received of the dealer from Europe. In the lower right hand corner the price is given in Marks; in the upper left hand corner in red are his prices to me, and I notice he charges 30 cents to the Mark which is certainly a very small advance. Whatever you may select I shall charge you his prices for, with 10 per cent added, this will make the coins come very low, I think. Amongst the siege pieces are many very rare and desirable.

"I wrote you several days since concerning the gold Proof Sets. I think I wrote you that I had an offer for them which I held in abeyance waiting your decision. My customer [is anxious? . . . Woodward left out something] for an answer, will you kindly let me know if you wish to purchase the nine sets concerning which you wrote, or any portion of them.

"The owner of the Non Vi is also anxious for my decision, will you please give me yours. I beg you will excuse me if I seem importunate but I am anxious on account of my correspondents, who hurry me.

"In a catalogue which I sent you the other day, if you will look it over you will discover some very desirable things . . . P.S. Looking over, I find I am not quite correct about marks: one invoice is marked as I said, another invoice (XI) has the number in the upper left corner, the price in dollars and cents at the lower right. The whole of invoice XI you will notice consists of siege pieces and coins of necessity . . ."

Woodward continued pushing on Oct. 22: "I am sorry you did not keep the Non Vi for it is a good one and seems to me to be well worth the money.

"I quote you prices as near as I can guess on the prehistoric objects . . . [Lengthy list of lot numbers and price estimates follows, with a few comments regarding desirability of certain of these lots. We can safely skip it.]

"Coming to the gold Proof Sets I have had an offer for the entire line but for a fair price I will take out and sell you such as you want. 1860 is scarce, 1861 is very scarce, 1863 is one of the very rarest, 1866 and 1868 are both rare, also 1870 and 1872. 1873 is even rarer than 1863. 1874 is rare, and 1875 amongst the rarest, the $3 piece alone is held at $25. I am of the opinion that if sold at auction the nine sets would bring about $660, they ought to. I will send them to you for $560. I would send them in advance for examination but, of course, you know just how they appeal. Mr. Ely kept them wrapped up as they left the Mint." [Our only, though conclusive, evidence that these nine rare date gold proof sets were from the Ely Collection.]

Minor complications on Oct. 25: "I am sorry to find I have got the things a little mixed in the matter of the gold Proofs. In my first letter to you on the subject I stated to you that I had the series 1860 to 1883 complete, wanting only 1861. In your letter to me, Sept. 3rd, which I inclose, you said 'I want only', etc. In my reply I quoted prices amounting to $660 for the 9 sets. When I received your letter of the 19th inst. I turned to your Sept. 3rd favor, cast up the aggregate amount $660, deducted from it 10%, leaving $594, from which I took $34, making my offer $560, and it is only now that I have discovered that you included in your list 1861, a set which I have never had and could not possibly obtain.

"I send you the 9 sets which I supposed you inquired about, and which I supposed I was offering, and inclose you a bill for the same at $550, but this implies no obligation on your part to purchase them. They are, however, very cheap at that price and I don't believe they can be duplicated in the country.

"I am sorry for all this bother. Your letter of Sept. 3rd be kind enough to return to me as I have an unbroken file of the entire correspondence of my business life.

[Oh, if we only had that file!]

"The package of coins returned arrived safely. The $3 pieces which you mention, in my next sale, will, I judge, bring about $5 each. 1856, '7 and '8, I should say one or two dollars more. I have an order at a little less than $5 on the whole line, and on some of the more recent ones orders at $7 and upwards.

"As I shall be in New York Oct. 27-31, I will thank you to address me there in care of Bangs & Co." [For the German Sale, Oct. 29, and the Beales Sale, Oct. 31.]

Final entry on the proof sets: two receipted bills, both dated October 25, 1883, one for $15.41 on purchases from invoices Y.B. and XI, the other for $550 for nine gold proof sets. To straighten out the tangle of the previous letters, the dates Garrett finally purchased were: 1860, 1863, 1866, 1868, 1870, Quarter, 1827, Curled Base 2, original, proof. Ex J.J. Mickley; Jeremiah Colburn; John McCoy; Herman Ely Sale, Woodward's 62nd, 1/8/84, Lot 244.

1872, 1873, 1874 and 1875. All for $550! The 1875 set alone realized a total of $320,000 in the 1976 Garrett Sale! A nice improvement on the investment of only $85 for that set!

This marks the end of the correspondence file until March, 1885, when we resume in the middle of ongoing affairs. There is no telling what happened to the missing letters of later 1883, all of 1884 and the beginning of 1885. That correspondence continued can be inferred from successful bids by Garrett in four different Woodward auctions during that period, including the following items:

Woodward's 62nd Sale, Ely Collection, 1/8/84:

Silver Dollars of 1853, 1854, 1856, 1865

FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

George D. Hatie

In January I had the pleasure of attending three very enjoyable conventions, the International Mid-Winter Coin Convention in Miami Beach, the Florida United Numismatists Convention in Orlando, and the Numismatic Association of Southern California Convention in Los Angeles. Coincidentally, the last two were silver anniversary conventions.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find a list of the District Representatives who have been appointed for the duration of my term as President. Some of you may have some questions as to the functions of a District Representative. A District Representative's responsibilities include the following:

1. To promote good will for ANA, support ANA programs, and acquaint club and individual members and prospective members with the numerous services offered by ANA.

2. To be available to discuss Association affairs with members and prospective members, particularly by attending coin club meetings and local, state and regional conventions.

3. To make known to Kurt Krueger, chairman of the District Representative Committee, or to any other elected or appointed officer, any recommendations for making ANA more responsive to the needs of its members, and any problems with respect to the policies, attitudes and activities of ANA or its personnel.

4. To assist member clubs with respect to club programs and club problems and give counsel to any group desirous of organizing a club.

5. To encourage the submission of articles and news items for inclusion in the ANA Club Bulletin.

6. To obtain new members, encourage membership renewals and endeavor to resolve any misunderstanding that otherwise might result in a nonrenewal of membership.

Your elected and appointed officers are looking forward to your attendance at our Second Midyear Convention. I know this convention will be most successful and look forward to the uninterrupted continuance of midyear conventions from now on. Those attending will enjoy the mild winter temperature of Albuquerque, which will provide many of you with a welcome relief from less desirable February weather in other localities.

ANA Solicits Nominations for Award

The ANA board of governors authorized establishment of the Faye Rochette Memorial Fund in 1977 for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of the former wife of executive vice president Edward C. Rochette. Prior to her untimely death in August 1977, Faye became well known to many members of the Association, especially those who attended its annual conventions.

At the 1978 convention in Houston, the first "Great Lady of ANA Award" was presented to Evie Kelley of Albuquerque. Last year at St. Louis the award went to Coin World's Margo Russell. Now the committee is seeking nominations from which the 1980 recipient will be chosen.

According to the committee that administers the fund and award, "anyone nominated for this award must be a member of the ANA but not an officer of it. Consideration will be given to the nominee who best exemplifies the many traits and characteristics of the one whom this award honors: sincerity, friendliness, compassion, frankness, dedication, enthusiasm and the possession of an ebullient and high-spirited personality."

Selection of the recipient of this award is vested solely with the Faye Rochette Memorial Award committee, composed of William C. Henderson, Chm., Frederic Mantei, Jr. and Edward C. Rochette. The selection must be made from the list of nominees submitted.

It is important that the nominator give information as to the qualifications for the award of the person he names. ANA members may submit nominations for the award prior to March 15. They should be sent to: The Faye Rochette Memorial Committee, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

Counterfeit 1972 Doubled Die Cent Discovered

The appearance of a counterfeit 1972 Doubled Die cent came as no surprise to the ANACS staff. With the ever increasing values placed on varieties, it was just a matter of time before a counterfeiter decided to fill the demand. While this new counterfeit is not one of the better attempts at duplicating coins, it could fool newcomers to coin collecting.

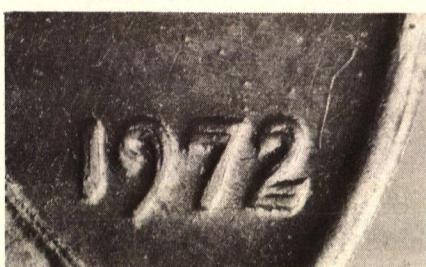

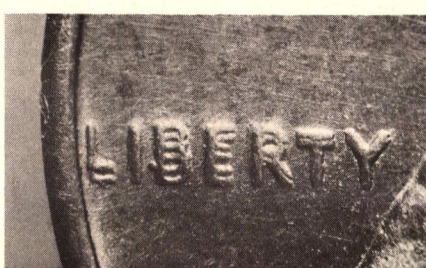

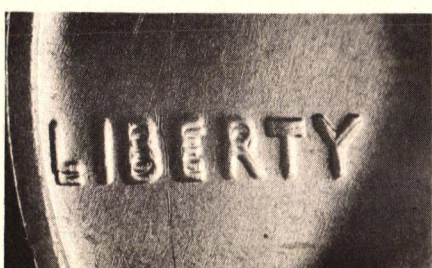

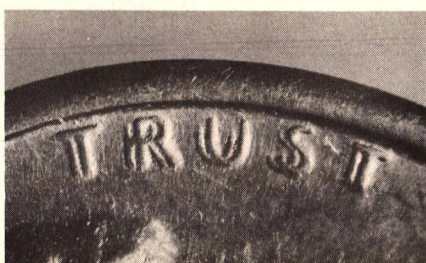

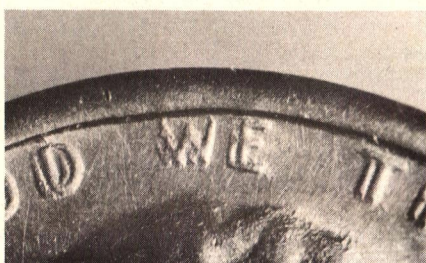

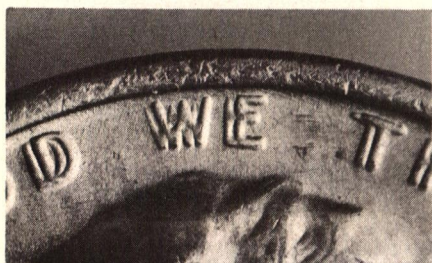

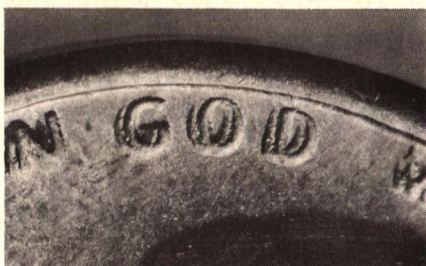

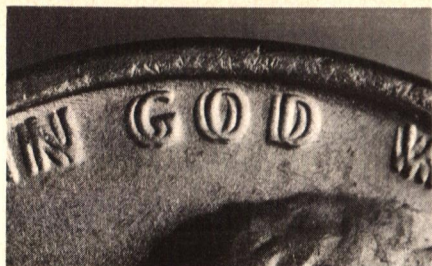

The photographs accompanying this story show specific details of the counterfeit, and matching photos show the corresponding areas of the genuine coin. Generally, the counterfeit has an overall weakness of detail, quite a large number of lumps all over the obverse and reverse and a few raised "wormy" lines that are seldom seen on genuine coins. These points cannot be used as diagnostics of counterfeit coins in general, but should be used to detect this particular counterfeiter's product.

NUMISMATIC VIGNETTES

by Glenn B. Smedley

■ Did you know? An ANA member of many years ago (1909-37) was never an officer or active in the Association yet his portrait is preserved on a bronze plaque and a bronze medal by the same famous sculptor. He and a partner founded a company that manufactured machine tools and astronomical instruments, including several notable telescopes (Lick, for one). We find no record of his numismatic interests, but he had good credentials as an ANA member, having been recommended by its editor and publisher Farran Zerbe and general secretary Frank G. Duffield. He died in 1937 at age 90, the holder of many engineering honor awards. His name was Ambrose Swasey and he was ANA member no. 1220. The famous sculptor was Victor D. Brenner.

■ The United States Postal Service reported, in its December issue of Memo to Mailers, that it had accused a private mint of falsely advertising its gold-plated John Wayne memorial medal.

One of the implications the Postal Service found misleading was that the gold plating would add significantly to the medal's value.

With the skyrocketing price of gold and silver, there will be an increasing number of attempts to lure buyers with offers of items containing precious metals. Gold and silver do have a value in enhancing the appearance of many objects, especially those used as ornaments. Beware, however, of vague and indefinite implications that you are getting value in the mere quantity of the metal. When buying precious metals in any form, insist on a statement of the quantity and purity of what you are paying for. A troy ounce of standard coin gold, for instance, is worth only $450 when pure gold can be had at $500 an ounce.

■ Isn't it a grand and satisfying feeling to find a highly-placed or a recognized authority expounding one of your own pet theories! This happened to me not long ago when an interview with financial columnist Sylvia Porter in—of all places—the November United Mainliner caught my attention.

It was an interesting and thought-provoking interview, but the question that brought forth the statement of my own belief was: "Aside from inflation and inflation psychology, what do you see as the biggest problems currently facing the U.S. economy?" Porter's (Mrs. James F. Fox) reply: "Declining productivity (my italics). That's the key to the whole thing. That's what started the inflation. Let's put it in simple terms: If ten people can put out 100 widgets to sell at ten dollars apiece you have small profit. If the same ten people can put out 150 widgets then the extra money can be divided between higher wages and higher profits." (Higher standard of living) "But if productivity declines, you have to put up the price of widgets and you get inflation." (Eventually everyone loses.)

Her example is over-simplified, of course, but it illustrates the problem. Declining productivity is not the single cause of inflation but it is a big factor and Mrs. Porter is probably correct in calling it the "key." A cutback in the money supply may, as many economists say, result in curbing of inflation, painfully. A few percentage points increase in productivity throughout business and industry would have beneficial effects without the pain.

WORLD COIN NEWS

U.S.S.R.—New Series of 1980 Olympic Coins

The latest 1980 Olympic coin commemoratives struck in silver, gold and platinum by the Goznak Mint of Moscow and Leningrad are available now at major coin dealers.

Numismatists can add the fourth series of silver and platinum, also the fifth gold coin to their Moscow 1980 Olympic coin collections. The final series in each metal to complete this unique Olympic coin issue celebrating the first Olympics ever hosted by the Soviet Union, will be available this spring, prior to the opening of the Games in Moscow mid-July.

"The unprecedented escalation in precious metal costs during recent months has made it necessary to increase the price of these latest issues," said Gerald D. Edge, the Moscow 1980 Olympic Coin Program's North American managing director. "Retail coin sales traditionally reflect the prevailing price of the precious metal in which a coin is struck, therefore retail prices of Moscow's latest Olympic coins also reflect higher bullion costs."

Despite this year's precipitous rise in silver and gold costs, Olympic silver coins have only risen in price by an average of 20 percent and gold coins an average of 40 percent, Mr. Edge pointed out. He added that the retail price of the platinum coins has risen proportionately to that of the metal.

Gold

The Program's suggested retail issue prices for the uncirculated quality of the new series are $110 (silver) $287 (gold) and $488 (platinum). Mr. Edge assured current direct mail subscribers that their existing orders for Olympic coins will continue to be honored at original guaranteed prices.

New Issues Described

Consisting of two five-ruble and three ten-ruble legal tender coins, the fourth .900 fine silver series symbolizes athletic strength. This is the last series based on individual sports themes related to the Olympic motto: "Citius, Altius, Fortius," (swifter, higher, stronger).

Each silver coin's reverse illustrates raised delineations of the 1980 Olympic Games emblem alongside familiar Olympic disciplines including weightlifting, hammer throw, judo and boxing. Coin designs also incorporate the stadium in which the featured event will take place during the Games this year. In contrast to the contemporary version of weightlifting, one ten-ruble silver coin depicts a non-Olympic Russian sport known as "lifting of the weight." The object of this contest, as exemplified by the coin's design, is the number of times a 16 kilogram bowling-ball shaped weight can be lifted in one hand.

Containing a half ounce of gold, the fifth in the .900 fine gold six-coin collection bears the combined message of "Sports and Peace" on its reverse. Defined by a globe and palm branch, the design is overstruck by the raised delineation of the 1980 Olympic Games emblem.

Containing a half ounce of platinum, the fourth in a five-coin collection—unparalleled in the 2,500-year history of commemorative Olympic coinage—pursues the historic theme of previous issues in portraying ancient charioteers from the early Greek Games. The new 150-ruble coin also perpetuates a rare tradition in the minting of legal tender platinum coins dating back more than 150 years when the world's first specimen was struck by Imperial Russia.

All Moscow Olympic coins have a common obverse showing the Soviet state emblem composed of entwined wreaths encircling a globe illuminated by a radiant sun. Each obverse also carries the Cyrillic inscription "USSR" and the coin's legal tender denomination. The inscription around each coin's reverse circumference reads: "The XXII Olympiad, Moscow 1980," with the year of mintage.

It is anticipated that the United States Olympic Committee will receive contributions in excess of $1,000,000, representing three percent of the face value of every Moscow Olympic coin purchased in the United States. This same arrangement benefits national olympic committees in all participating nations.

In total, the Moscow 1980 Olympic coin collection will consist of 28 silver coins (five series); six gold and five platinum coins. They are available through selected coin dealers and mail order.

FEATURING YOUNG NUMISMATISTS

ROMAN COIN PROJECT

by David R. Cervin, ANA 65523

Originated and administered by David R. Cervin, the Roman Coin Project is a program specially designed for junior members of the ANA to earn Roman and Byzantine coins for their activities in numismatics. Up to eight coins can be earned, four Roman coins in the initial program, and four Byzantine coins in the advanced section.

In the initial program, the first three coins can be earned from numismatic participation in three of six categories: educational presentations, exhibiting, writing, club office, show committee chairmanship, or receiving a badge in numismatics from your youth group. The fourth coin must be earned by completing the ANA's Young Numismatists Correspondence Course. In the advanced program, coin number five is earned by signing up a new ANA member, coin number six by signing up two additional members, coin number seven for the publication of at least 500 words in a major numismatic publication, and coin number eight for planning and executing an exhibit of the coins earned thus far in the program.

For further information or a Roman Coin Request Form write David R. Cervin, 6201 Adirondack, Amarillo, TX 79106.

Julie Bascou of Thousand Oaks, California is the first junior to complete the Roman Coin Project and be assigned a two-digit number, or, in simple English, number 10. Her accomplishments, both in and out of the RCP, are myriad.

What is Julie's best accomplishment? Well, though not her best, it is with great pleasure to note that she got a first in the Ancient category at the CSNA convention with the four Roman and three Byzantine coins earned in the RCP! The judges awarded her 96, 95 and 79 for a 90 average, a commendable accomplishment when one recognizes that the coins awarded in the RCP are understandably in the lower echelon of quality. However, they are all guaranteed to be genuine and nearly all are attributable at least by emperors. And above all they cost nothing in dollars. However, they do require your time and lots of it. But that is what numismatics is all about. If you intend to be a numismatist, then you not only must work, but also want to work at numismatics.

Julie's finest accomplishment was her 700 word article that recently appeared in Coin World. The editors thought enough of it to give it a page wide heading titled "Exhibiting Involves Research, Hard Work", and they included her picture. The feature of her article was the divulging of her secret for exhibiting the coins of a single country. She simply writes the General Consul's office here in the United States of the country that she is interested in. The result? Usually a couple of envelopes of information to luxuriously develop and illustrate her exhibit. Again, like the coins she earned, this information is free.

What has this initiative resulted in? Julie, just sixteen years old and a coin collector for less than four years, has earned seven Best of Show for junior, eleven first place, ten second place, and five third place honors! And Julie does not stop with exhibiting and writing. She speaks fluently and on more than one occasion she has shared her exhibiting skill with both junior and adult groups.

What does her club, the Canejo Valley Coin Club, think of her? They selected her, a mere 16-year old, to be a judge at their fall show. And they nominated her as their representative for Junior Numismatist of the Year for Southern California!

Writing me, Julie says, "I want to thank you for this program that you are offering. I enjoyed being a part of it and completing it as fast as I did this year." How long did it take Julie to complete the entire program? Julie earned her first coin, one of Constantine the Great AD 307-338, in March of last year. Her eighth and final coin (plus a bonus coin from ancient Greece) was sent her in November, an elapsed time of only nine months! But when you work as hard as Julie does, the time period can be shortened. This nine month period is the shortest on record for completing the entire program, two to three years is the usual par for the course.

Oh, yes! What did Julie earn in her final endeavor? For exhibiting the previously earned seven coins, she received a follis of Constans II, AD 641-68. The obverse shows Constans standing, facing, and holding a long cross and a globus cruciger. The legend reads, in a combination of Greek and Latin, "In this sign may you conquer." (This comes from Constantine's vision.) The reverse is built around a large "M," which means 40 nummi or one follis, and the regnal year and striking officina from the Constantinople mint. For her bonus coin Julie received one from AEOLIS (c. 200 BC) showing a bust of Athena right/horse right. She also received a pamphlet on early dated Anno Domini coins.

Do you have to be a Julie Bascou to excel in the RCP? Definitely not! You don't have to win a single award in exhibiting. (Julie has 33 awards!) But even if you don't win anything it is fun to try. Yes, you have to talk, write, exhibit, join, work; in other words participate in numismatics. And you, too, can complete the program, earn nine ancient coins, and get an individualized double-digit number representing your order of completion. If you don't participate you just aren't getting your money's worth from your ANA membership cost, and you are missing out on a lot of the fun. Write immediately for details and a RCR Form.

By the way, did you read Ted Lopez' splendid article in the November issue of The Numismatist? Titled "Mexico's Cinco de Mayo Victory," it brings out the fascinating history behind Mexico's first victory over a European Power. It further relates . . . but read it yourself. It is a pleasure to see how well a 14-year-old can handle words. What did Ted earn for this fine endeavor? He has a half follis (20 nummi) of Anastasius, AD 491-518, generally regarded as the first emperor of the great Byzantine Empire, the Roman Empire of the East that was to survive the fall of Rome (AD 476) by nearly one thousand years. Can you earn one of these coins? You had better believe it! Just get started.

Call for Patrons

Patrons for the ANA's 88th Anniversary Convention, to be held August 18-23, are sorely needed to help subsidize the cost of the convention program, along with tours and events which are offered to conventioners at less than cost.

Following the successful drive initiated for last year's convention in St. Louis, four categories of patron support are being offered: Collector, minimum $5; Dealer, minimum $10; Club, minimum $10; and Benefactor, minimum $25. Naturally larger amounts are encouraged and appreciated, and all donations are tax deductible.

Help make the 1980 convention one of the best ever! Send your check made payable to the ANA 88th Anniversary Convention to Patrons Chairman Leroy Smith, ANA Headquarters, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

Silver Medal Available to Clubs

After being out of stock for some months, the ANA again offers a silver medal to clubs for use in honoring and giving recognition to their retiring presidents. Only 200 of the two-inch medals in fine silver were struck and, with the rising price of silver, they may never be reordered.

The obverse of this fine medal features a seated lady in classical dress, holding the ANA seal in her right hand and an olive branch in the left. There is a half circle of stars near the upper rim and the words PAST PRESIDENT are on the plinth, leaving a 10 mm exergue in which to engrave the club's name.

The reverse is plain except for a stylized olive branch on a raised vertical bar near the right rim. Thus there is ample space for the club to have the recipient's name and dates of service engraved.

The silver medal is available, without engraving, at $57.50 postpaid. This price is subject to change, depending upon the silver bullion market. The same piece may be acquired in bronze for $6.00.

Orders with remittance should be sent to the American Numismatic Association, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

May 1st Deadline for Club Publications Contest

Local and state coin clubs have the chance to win a specially designed logo suitable for use on the club's newsletter in the ANA's annual Outstanding Club Publication contest. In order to win, clubs must send their 1979 newsletters by first class mail, along with the name and address of sender, by May 1st. The contest is only open to clubs who have paid their 1980 dues and those clubs which do not have an elected or salaried officer of the association as editor or assistant editor. Newsletters should be addressed to : Club Publications Competition, American Numismatic Association, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

Instituted in 1969, the awards pay tribute to outstanding regional and local club newsletters. Judged on the basis of general appearance, newness, quality, composition, aptness of illustrations, arrangement and relative interest to members, newsletters must have been issued on a regular basis at least quarterly, and all issues for 1979 must be submitted. Judges will consist of a panel of not less than four members headed by ANA editor N. Neil Harris.

Though the ANA hopes to award two prizes, one to a regional organization and one to a local club, no prizes will be given if none are deemed worthy of the award. Several newsletters have already been received at headquarters, so plan to send in your club's publication right away!

CINCINNATI

ANA to Visit the Queen City

by Richard B. Dusterberg

Cincinnati, a city of contrasts, a city that charms curiously, a city where cosmopolitan style comes comfortably with rivertown tradition, will serve the American Numismatic Association as its convention site in the summer of 1980. From August 18-23 the numismatic fraternity will take its first look at the Queen City since 1941.

There may not be enough time for convention goers to sense the really singular style of this German-Irish city, but in coffee shops and lounges and at counters and in lobbies they'll realize that the town focuses on its Reds throughout the long summer; from Skywalk photo centers they'll sense that Cincinnatians revere and protect their river city past; and from the noontime gatherings at Fountain Square where office workers eat lunch with the Grand Old Lady, the Genius of Waters, the visitor may sense the city has a character all its own. It's a character that supports professional sports, a rich musical tradition, and a well-scrubbed look consistent with the fact that Ivory Soap was developed here.

Seeing it is easy. The compact downtown occupies only a few short blocks of narrow streets. And visitors can stroll at genuine leisure, avoiding vehicles and traffic signals by using the Skywalk, a second-level, weather-protected walkway unique in America. The Convention Center and the Stouffer's Hotel form the hub of this overhead walkway system. ANA guests will walk without interruption from the hotel lobby to restaurants, theaters, even (with a short hiatus) to Riverfront Stadium and the downtown port for the Delta Queen and Mississippi Queen steamboats.

The famous Cincinnati restaurants are usually within walking distance too. Remember, this is the mid-American city you've heard about, the one that boasts multiple five-star French restaurants . . . and gourmets will tell you that the old German cuisine, the Italian places, the Greek and Chinese are of singular quality too. This is not a place where eating should be confined to the hotel dining room or coffee shop.

The main hotel, Stouffer's Cincinnati Towers, is everything a convention goer will demand or want—900 rooms, a top-of-the-tower revolving restaurant, little bistros and coffee shops. For an ANA member it's even more because it reverses the trend of recent years by putting the hotel and convention facilities under one roof. Stouffer's lobby connects by covered Skywalk to the lobby of the Convention Center. The overflow hotel, the Netherland Hilton, is only a few feet away, again by Skywalk. Those who choose the Netherland will be selecting a grand old hotel with the gracious hallmarks of an earlier era: a rich, wide lobby with lofty ceilings where the muted lights maintain an atmosphere of warm elegance.

Still, why Cincinnati for a national coin convention? Why not a larger city, New York, Los Angeles, Chicago? Granted, the greater Cincinnati population numbers only a million or so. One must draw a one-day driving radius around it to see its real, strategic location. The major cities of the American heartland—Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh—lie within 300 miles along with many smaller cities that never see a national coin show—Lexington, Louisville, Columbus, Charleston, Indianapolis . . . Attendance estimates are conjectural at best. It has been almost 40 years since ANA visited Cincinnati, more than a decade since it has chosen a northern city west of the Atlantic seaboard and east of the Mississippi. Officials of the Cincinnati Numismatic Association, the host club, will not speculate on numbers but point out that the small towns and cities of the region harbor tens of thousands of dedicated collectors. The club is reaching out to find them.

The Cincinnati Numismatic Association marks 50 years of uninterrupted monthly meetings in 1980 and grasps its duties as host club with the enthusiasm expected of a celebrant. The traditional convention events will all be observed but special treats are in store. The first occurred in St. Louis when the Cincinnati committee presented banquet attendees with 1980 invitational medals.

Stouffer's Cincinnati Towers

In a dynamic market for coins, in a densely populated but numismatically unmeasured region of the country, in a city to be remembered for its safe and beautiful downtown, who can afford to miss ANA 1980 in Cincinnati?

Cincinnati Room Rates

Those wishing to assure themselves a room in the ANA convention hotel, the Stouffer's Cincinnati Towers, should write to the hotel at 141 West Sixth Street, Cincinnati, OH 45202 and request a reservation form for the American Numismatic Association, August 16-24, 1980. Rates are as follows:

Those interested in staying at the Hilton, which offers the same rates as above, may use the Stouffer's reservation form.

Anne Frank Marks 50th Birthday Anniversary

The fiftieth birthday of Anne Frank (1929-1945), has been commemorated by a work of medallic sculpture showing Anne as she looked when she wrote The Diary of a Young Girl—one of the biggest selling books of all time, translated into more than fifty languages. Otto Frank, Anne's 90-year-old father, on seeing the design for the Anne Frank medal, gave his warm blessing to The Judaic Heritage Society, expressing his gratitude and appreciation of the portrait of his daughter which he described as "an excellent work which does justice to Anne."

To observe her birthday, Otto Frank and Queen Juliana of The Netherlands led a pilgrimage to the narrow red-brick building in Amsterdam where Anne, with her father, mother, sister and four other Jews spent two years hiding in an attic and where Anne wrote her celebrated diary. Anne died in the Nazi death camp of Bergen-Belsen, only three months before her sixteenth birthday. Her father was the only member of the family to survive the war.

The photograph used by The Judaic Heritage Society in creating the Anne Frank Commemorative Medal was one Anne herself pasted in her diary on October 10, 1942. Beside it, she wrote, "This is a photo as I would wish myself to look all the time. Then I would maybe have a chance to come to Hollywood."

The Anne Frank Commemorative Medal was designed by the brilliant young Polish-born Israeli artist, Zamy Steynovitz. Sculpting was done in high relief by Karen Worth who received the ANA's 1977 Numismatic Art Award. Karen Worth has sculpted more than 150 works of medallic art for The Judaic Heritage Society, including each of the 120 medals of The Medallic History of the Jews of America.

The Anne Frank Commemorative Medal is being struck in a 1½-inch size in a bronze edition of 5000 at $14 each, in a silver plate edition of 3000 at $20 each, and in a gold plate edition of 2500 at $35 each. The medal is also being struck in a 1¼-inch format in pure silver (.999) in an edition of 2000 at $60 each and in solid 24 karat gold, weighing more than one ounce, in an edition of 400 at $1050 each.

Further information about the Anne Frank Commemorative Medal may be obtained from The Judaic Heritage Society, P.O. Box 2022, New York, NY 10017.

BOOKMARKS by Nancy Stith, Librarian

All books listed here are available to members on a loan basis from the ANA library.

Loan requests should list the book's catalog number.

Members wishing to purchase these books can quite often acquire them from a dealer more quickly and easily than from a publisher. In other cases, write to the address listed with each book.

1979 was a very good year for the ANA Library. In addition to gifts mentioned earlier, the library has received a number of outstanding donations in the last few months which warrant special mention. The first thank-you goes to Larry Adams and the Check Collectors Round Table for giving us a copy of the Check Collectors' slide program and for allowing us to incorporate this program into the ANA Visual Education Library as Set #44. This beautifully photographed and fascinating set entitled "The History and Collecting of Checks" is a welcome addition.

Another lovely contribution from Harold Baker, ANA Life Member 348, is a copy of The American Bond Detector; and Complete History of The United States Government Securities . . ., published in 1869. The purpose of this publication was similar to that of Heath's counterfeit detector for bank notes. This volume, in nearly mint condition and containing plates printed with the original engravings used by the U.S. Treasury, will be added to the Rare Book Collection.

Finally, we have received two copies of the 16mm sound film The Granite Lady from Dr. Daniel Schwartz in memory of his father, Max Schwartz.

This movie, produced for the Bureau of the Mint, portrays the history of the San Francisco mint from the early days of the California gold rush through the restoration of the building to the present day. Both copies of this excellent award winning film are available for loan from the ANA Library. They may be ordered for club meetings by writing to the ANA Visual Education Program, P.O. Box 2366, Colorado Springs, CO 80901.

The contributions of interested people like these and many others throughout the year strengthen the resources of the ANA Library and make it an important asset of ANA and a benefit to all the members.

COIN COLLECTIONS, THEIR PRESERVATION, CLASSIFICATION AND PRESENTATION, by David William MacDowall. 1978. 82p. Illus. Paper cover. Unipub, 345 Park Ave. S., New York, NY 10010. $7.

The purpose of this book is to train middle level museum professionals who are not numismatists but are responsible for coin collections. However, the book includes information valuable to anyone interested in coins. Chapters are entitled Cleaning and Preservation, Classification and Identification, Registration of Accessions, Storage and Display, and Preparation of Catalogues. The author is an authority on ancient coins and holder of the Barclay Head

Prize for Ancient Numismatics, so the emphasis is on ancient coins.

STANDARD CATALOG OF COUNTERFEIT AND ALTERED UNITED STATES COINS, by Virgil Hancock and Larry Spanbauer. 1979. 221p. Illus. Hard cover. Sanford J. Durst, 133 E. 58th St., New York, NY 10022. $30.

This book is crammed with information on all types of counterfeit and altered United States coins including private gold and Confederate coins. The book is divided by type of counterfeit so items of the same denomination such as cents are found on several different pages; however, there is also an index which is very helpful. The book does not mention specific characteristics of specific copies, but the numerous photographs show many points to look for.

ALASKA TOKENS, by Ronald J. Benice. 1979. 208p. Illus. Hard cover. TAMS, c/o Clifford Mishler, P.O. Box 316, Iola, WI 54945. $15.

This book is specifically limited to unofficial tokens actually used for monetary exchange before Alaska became a state in 1959. About 1500 tokens are listed and 2,000 photos of tokens, actual stores and advertisements provide a well-rounded picture of early merchandising in the 49th state. Short descriptions of each place are included along with denomination, metal, shape, size, rarity and value of each token. The introduction includes a very helpful discussion of what makes some tokens worth more than others. This analysis will be of interest to all token collectors.

GOLD: AN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY, by Vincent Buranelli. 1979. 224p. Illus. Hard cover. Hammond, Inc., Maplewood, NJ 07040. $30.

Opulent is the word that best describes this new publication on gold. Beginning with a general introduction the text goes on to describe gold rushes around the world, stories and legends about the metal, and uses of gold today. Gold coins are mentioned only briefly. Lavish illustrations make this book interesting leisure time reading.

Harlan Berk Donates Plaster Ancients

A donation of about 1,900 plaster casts of ancient Greek coins was made to the ANA recently by Harlan J. Berk of Joliet, Illinois. As a means of storing the plasters for ready inspection, Berk included a solid oak cabinet containing thirty 14 x 9 inch shallow felt-lined drawers.

The pieces in this donation were used to illustrate two auction catalogs several years ago. It used to be the practice to photograph such plaster casts to get the best quality printed illustrations.

Students of ancient Greek coins will find these plasters useful in instances where the coins themselves are not available for examination. They represent many coins of uncommonly fine quality and some of great rarity, such as the magnificent 5th and 4th century B.C. Syracusan pieces by Cimon, Euaenetus and Eucleides.

This research collection and the fine housing for it are appreciated as a valued addition to the ANA museum holdings.

Harlan Berk and Nancy Stith, ANA librarian, examine the many plaster casts of ancient Greek coins donated by Berk.

NOTES AND QUERIES

Barter Kits Again Offered

Barter kits containing gold coins, jewelry and watches are again being offered to the general public in a national sealed bid sale by the Defense Property Disposal Service (DPDS).

Officially known as "escape and evasion kits," these lucrative items were first put together during World War II for air crewmen and paratroopers to use to try to get out of difficult situations in unfriendly territory. The remaining kits have been held in war reserve stock for several years, until it was determined that they were no longer needed by the military.

Because of the anticipated public interest, a test sale in August of 350 kits (about ten percent of the total) was designed to reach as many people as possible and to get the best return to the U.S. Treasury. The unique bit of memorabilia, coins and gold contents, coupled with a rising gold market price, led to a mini gold rush for DPDS, resulting in a total sale of nearly $225,000.

The final sale of nearly 3,000 kits will be conducted by the Defense Property Disposal Region-Columbus, Ohio, on February 12, 1980. Sealed bids will be opened beginning at 9:00 a.m. Bids received after that hour will not be eligible.

Two kinds of kits are available: An Atlantic kit from World War II and a Southeast Asia kit, believed to be used in the Korean conflict.

The Atlantic kit contains one 20-franc and one 10-franc gold coins (French mintage), one 1-pound sovereign and two ½-pound sovereign gold coins (British or South African mintage), and three gold rings, some plain and some embossed. The coins are not in mint condition, nor have they been formally appraised, but they appear to be in very good condition. Each of the Atlantic kits contains about .90 troy ounces of fine gold in the coins and rings. A total of 2,537 of them are offered. The kits are sealed and will be shipped with special opening instructions.

The Southeast Asia kit contains one gold link chain (4 links) 1¾" in length, one gold embossed pendant (some heart shape and some of flat circular design), two gold embossed rings, and one 21-jewel Swiss calendar watch with black cloth band. Each of these kits contains about 1.08 troy ounces of fine gold. A total of 430 Southeast Asia kits are offered.

Coin condition and dates, as well as ring and pendant style vary with each kit. Because most of the kits are sealed, it will not be possible for bidders to request specific composition.

In the initial sale, the Atlantic kits were sold at a high bid of $1,010, a low bid of $575, with the average bid at $637.57. The Southeast Asia kits were sold at a high bid of $1,050, a low bid of $600, with the average bid at $661.18.

Kits will be awarded to the highest bidders. There is a minimum acceptable price per kit in the February 12 sale of $518 for the Atlantic kit and $540 for the Southeast Asia kit, but these are subject to changes in the market price of gold at the time of bid opening. Bids can be made on any quantity of one or more, but a deposit of 20 percent of the total must accompany the offer.

Postage and handling of shipment will be prepaid by the government to the highest bidders within the U.S., trust territories and possessions. Purchasers not located within those geographical areas can make their own arrangements for obtaining possession of the kits to include export import clearances, if required.

A bid form and complete terms of the sale are available in a sales catalog. Interested bidders can write to: Defense Property Disposal Region-Columbus, ATTN: DPDR-CM1, P.O. Box 13110, Columbus, OH 43213.

Canadian Dealers Handbook Available

The Canadian Association of Numismatic Dealers has published a new booklet entitled Coin Collectors Handbook and is offering copies free to the public. Intended as an introduction to the hobby of coin collecting, the 16-page booklet covers many areas of interest to a new collector.

Beginning with a brief history of coin collecting as a hobby, Coin Collectors Handbook explores such topics as how to begin a coin collection, how to house and store it, where to learn more about Canadian coins, how to buy, sell and appraise coins, and how to properly grade their state of preservation. Also included is a complete listing of every type of Canadian coin issued since 1858, the names and addresses of major Canadian and American coin periodicals, and the titles of seven books suggested for further reading in the field of Canadian and world coins.

The publication of Coin Collectors Handbook was entirely underwritten by the Canadian Association of Numismatic Dealers, an incorporated, non-profit group devoted to improving the numismatic hobby by various means, particularly education. The handbook is based on a booklet published by Western Publishing Company, Inc., under the name Welcome to Coin Collecting. With Western's permission, it was substantially rewritten for the Canadian reader by Robert Aaron, Toronto Star coin columnist and CAND'S legal counsel, and was produced through the joint efforts of

The Canadian Association of Numismatic Dealers

Charlton International Publishing, Inc., of Toronto, and Al Bliman, executive secretary of CAND.

A substantial reprint order has already been scheduled to coincide with Coin Week Canada, in April, 1980. Copies will be available from CAND dealer members across Canada. In addition, they are available by mail, free of charge, either singly or in bulk, to collector organizations. Requests, accompanied by a self-addressed envelope, preferably having a minimum size of 5 inches by 6 inches, should be sent to: The Canadian Association of Numismatic Dealers, c/o Al Bliman, Executive Secretary, P.O. Box 3145, Station D, Willowdale, Ontario, Canada M2R 3G5.

ANS Offers Grants, Fellowships

In an effort to provide students with a deeper understanding of the contributions made by numismatics to other fields of study, the American Numismatic Society is offering ten grants-in-aid to their 28th Seminar in Numismatics to be held at its museum from June 10 through August 9, 1980.

These grants will be available to students of high competence who will have completed at least one year of graduate work in classical studies, archaeology, history, art history, economic history or other related disciplines. Applications will also be accepted from junior faculty members with a degree in one of these fields. Each grant will carry a stipend of $900.

The format of the seminar involves an intensive program of study which will include lectures and conferences conducted by specialists in various fields, preparation and oral delivery of a paper on a topic of the student's choice, and actual contact with the coinages related to that topic. Formal and informal sessions will deal with topics such as the following: coin hoards and excavation coins; dated coins and their historical significance; coins as bearers of ideas and political documents; and coins and the art historian. Curators of the American Numismatic Society and instructors from this country and abroad will participate in the seminar; Dr. Bernhard Overbeck, Senior Keeper of Coins at the Staatliche Münzsammlung, Munich, and Lecturer in Roman Numismatics, Munich University, will be in residence throughout the Seminar.

A fellowship of $3500 is also available to a university graduate student in the fields of the humanities or the social sciences. Qualified applicants are those who will have completed the general examinations (or the equivalent) for their doctorate; those who will be writing a dissertation during the academic year 1980-81 on a topic in which the use of numismatic evidence plays a significant part; and those who will have attended one of the American Numismatic Society's Graduate Seminars prior to the time of application.

Applications for both the grants and the fellowship must be completed by March 1; announcement of the award of the Fellowship will be made prior to April 1. This offer is restricted to individuals affiliated with colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Further information and application forms may be obtained by writing the Society, Broadway at 155th Street, New York, NY 10032.

IN REMEMBRANCE

Maurice M. Burgett ANA 64115

The sudden death of Maurice Burgett, 62, on October 24 closed a significant, if not widely-known, numismatic career. He died in Belleville, Ill., which had been his home for many years.

Maurice was born in southeastern Illinois and always lived in that state. He attended the Cincinnati School of Embalming and operated funeral homes in New Douglas and Livingston in the East St. Louis area. During World War II he served with the U.S. Navy, 3rd Marine Division on Iwo Jima. He received two purple hearts, the silver and bronze stars and other citations, and was a Past Commander of the American Legion Post in New Douglas. During his lifetime he had donated 10½ gallons of blood to the Post's blood bank.

Being of a modest and solitary nature,

Maurice was not widely known for his appearances at numismatic gatherings but rather for his insatiable research in paper money of the Territories and Western States. He contributed numerous articles to Paper Money, publication of the Society of Paper Money Collectors of which he was charter member 92. His work on Oklahoma/Indian Territories/Kansas obsolete paper money and related items is being published by the SPMC.

He had outstanding material of his relatively narrow field of collecting and enjoyed displaying it at numerous shows and conventions. Among his awards at ANA conventions were first place in the Obsolete Paper Money Class in 1970, 1972 and 1977, the latter winning the Howland Wood Memorial Award for Best of Show also. In both 1977 and 1979 his exhibits in the Western Americana Class placed first.

Maurice was a member of the New Douglas Christian Church. Survivors include his wife of 33 years, Mary Alice, who was usually seen with him at numismatic affairs; a son, David; a daughter, Mrs. Harold Chew; and four grandsons.

It is not unusual nowadays to hear numismatists deplore the thinning of the ranks of true collectors who acquire and study material for their enlightenment and pleasure, and who share freely with others. The passing of Maurice Burgett has created one more vacancy in this category—he will be missed.

Herbert A. Seaby ANA G-3071

The numismatic hobby, the American Numismatic Association, and one of the world's most respected numismatic firms lost a highly illustrious name from their rolls on December 2 when Herbert Allen Seaby died at the age of 81 following a short illness. The octogenarian founder of London's widely known B.A. Seaby Ltd. was also a Golden Member of ANA since 1976, the year that marked the Golden Jubilee of Seaby's also.

Mr. Seaby founded the firm of B.A. Seaby Ltd. on June 28, 1926, and, by that choice of initials, puzzled many collectors for years to come. Here are excerpts from "Some Recollections" that he published in the July 1976 issue of Seaby Coin & Medal Bulletin.

"My grandmother gave me a set of Victorian Maundy Money on my tenth birthday. I had been born in Reading in 1898 and that Maundy set of my birth year first roused my interest in coins. . . I served with the Royal Engineers, the Royal Artillery and the Royal Flying Corps from early 1914 until 1919 and then, on the day I was demobilized from the Air Ministry, I walked in the Strand to Spink's and walked out with a job in their coin department at a wage of £3½ a week.

"In 1926 the opportunity occurred for me to start in business on my own through the suggestion and financial backing of Valentine Ryan, the distinguished, if slightly eccentric, collector of Roman and British coins. I am often asked if my father or grandfather was the founder of the firm as my name is 'Herbert' which does not seem to tally with the 'B' in the company's name, but I was always known as 'Bert' by my family and friends and as a young man I used the abbreviation in my signature. At that time it would have caused just as much confusion if the firm had been named 'H.A. Seaby Ltd.'"

The story of "Bert" Seaby's life for the past 53 years has been that of his firm. If its rise was not meteoric from the start, it has been steady and enviable. Changes in England's royal family in the 1930s created an increased public interest in coinage and, in 1935, Bert made his first trip to the United States. His son Peter and other members of the firm attended numismatic events in North America thereafter, to the end that Seaby's is a well-known name among collectors in the States and Canada.

Bert paid his last visit to North America, accompanied by Peter, in connection with the 1976 ANA New York convention where he received his gold 50-year membership medal. Upon receipt of the honor at the convention banquet, Seaby complimented the committee for producing "a damned good show."

Survivors include son Peter, now head of the Seaby group of companies; daughter Pat, Mrs. Ray Perrin of Canada; four granddaughters and a great-grandson; and two brothers, Philip and Wilfred, both retired. Wilfred was with Seaby's for about a year in 1928 but, in the words of Bert, "we couldn't afford to keep him," and he went on to make his name notable in the English museum world.

While organizations are not usually named as survivors, we suspect that Bert would have considered B.A. Seaby Ltd. as an individual survivor. Certainly he fostered it as if it were a child, and had ample reason to be proud of the firm and its personnel.

Life Insurance Plan Improved

Through the efforts of the ANA staff and the Group Insurance Administrator, the Group Life Insurance Plan has been improved recently. It now offers more member coverage, more spouse coverage, and more coverage for your money than ever before.

Previously, the plan had been able to provide members with life insurance benefits up to $50,000, and spouses up to $2,500. The much improved plan now offers coverage up to $100,000 in $10,000 units for both members and spouses. And, for the first time a spouse can be issued his or her own policy even if the member does not apply, and can receive as much protection of as a member.

Besides this improvement in coverage limits, there's been a 10% increase in benefits, at no increase in cost. This means that each $10,000 unit of coverage you apply for or currently hold is actually worth $11,000. The plan therefore can provide members and their spouses with up to $110,000 protection each. These additional benefits are absolutely free. Children's benefits have also been increased by 10%, to $1,000. This increase will be effective from February 1, 1980 until January 31, 1981, and will be renewed each year as long as good claim experience continues.

Since this 10% increase in benefits is actually a "free extra," it is suggested that you consider using it as a memorial gift to the ANA. With this free coverage, you could give the ANA $1,000 or more at no cost to you or your family. As a nonprofit organization, the ANA relies on the support of its members. A memorial gift provides support and is easy to arrange. Simply mention your bequest in your will, or specify it on the beneficiary line of the insurance application.

For more information on the ANA member Life Insurance Plan, or any of the ANA insurance plans, contact the Insurance Administrator: Albert H. Wohlers & Co., 1500 Higgins Road, Park Ridge, IL 60068, (312) 698-2221.

THE AMOROUS NUMISMATIST

An amorous numismatist
Met a fair damsel in a grove
And when he saw he sighed and wist
To have the maid return his love.
Said he, "A precious '99
Light olive cent I have in store
I treasure much but for thee pine
And feel I love thee almost more."
Said she, "I now am quite content,
My heart and hope are in-no-cent."

The amorous numismatist
He wept that she could thus repel.
"There is no coin upon my list
That I could love, I think, so well.
I have a charming 1804
And both together would I give,
I'm nearly sure, to thee adore,
Accepted, and with thee to live."
Said she, "You dwell upon the cent
But not upon the cent-I-meant."
"If," said the sad numismatist,
"My cents were bored and linked with wire,
To form a bracelet for thy wrist
And prove the worth of my desire,
If all the rarest of my gold
Were strung, thy tresses to bedeck,
My silver pieces most extolled
Were hung about thy snowy neck?"
"Ah," laughed the maiden, "Tell me when I'll be an acquies-cent then."

most for your rare coins...

*At our 1979 A.N.A. Auction.

Expert Appraisals.

The first step in any rare coin sale is an expert appraisal. New England Rare Coin Galleries' numismatists have in-depth knowledge in all areas of numismatics, including U.S. coins, ancient coins, world coins and rare U.S. currency. We will provide accurate market appraisals of all your materials, so that you can judge just how profitable your rare coin sale could be. For major collections, we will even travel to your bank, vault or home to ensure the privacy and security of your holdings.

Public Auction.

If our numismatists determine that your coins might bring the highest prices at public auction, we will help you place them in a New England Rare Coin Auctions sale. New England Rare Coin Auctions, a division of New England Rare Coin Galleries, is an internationally influential auction firm that holds four major auctions annually. Our reputation has prompted several prestigious numismatic organizations to ask us to conduct auctions for them — including the American Numismatic Association, the Metropolitan New York Numismatic Association and the Florida United Numismatists. In 1979, our A.N.A. auction broke the world's record for the highest-grossing numismatic sale ever conducted by a single auction firm: over $4.1 million. And today, our avid following of enthusiastic bidders allows us to consistently realize record prices for collectors.

Here are just a few examples of the outstanding prices New England Rare Coin Auctions has realized for recent clients:

The Seller & Buyer at Auction:

Two Sides of the Same Coin

There are two important people for each rare coin at auction. The Seller and the Buyer — two collectors interested in the same coin. It's our business to bring them together — so that the buyer finds the coin he's looking for, and the seller's coin goes to the collector who wants it most.

Collectors: Do you have coins to sell?

You're probably an expert coin buyer. But you may not find it so easy to sell your coins. Whether you want to liquidate your entire collection, or are merely selling a few coins, you can profit from expert selling advice. And you can find that expert advice at New England Rare Coin Auctions. Whatever questions you may have about the rare coin market and auction consignment, we can answer them in a free New England Consignment Evaluation.

How to arrange a free New England Consignment Evaluation.

Most consignments to New England auctions begin with a phone call. We're a local call from anywhere in the country. (Use our toll-free number 800-225-6794; in Mass. call 617-227-8800 collect.) Our Consignment Administrator Susan Bradley can schedule a Consignment Evaluation by one of our numismatists at your home, at a convention near you, or at your bank. If it is more convenient, mail your coins directly to us (registered and insured) for evaluation.

New England's next auction is the 1980 Metropolitan New York Numismatic Convention, to be held April 10-12. For your illustrated catalog, send $5. (Four catalog subscription, $15.)

to sell, you want the highest possible price
for your collection.
So does
Bowers & Ruddy Galleries.

We know how much time and money you have given to your collection, and we treat your property as though it were ours! We are working together to obtain the same result — high prices — since our commission is a percentage of the price which each lot brings.

Years of numismatic expertise go into the cataloguing of your coins. Unmatched photographic illustrations (color and black and white) of important pieces are placed right with the lots. We give you and your coins treatment of an uncompromising nature — to entice bidders to bid liberally.

Don't sell valuable rarities or choice type coins outright. Don't trust the big job of offering them to the collecting public to a little auction firm. If you do either, you will probably not get nearly what you should for your coins. Instead, consider for a moment the valuable qualities which are yours through a Bowers and Ruddy Galleries rare coin auction — qualities which can be yours for just a low commission rate.

Bowers & Ruddy Galleries, Inc.

IMMEDIATE CASH ADVANCES are available in any amount. There is no need to sell your property outright at less than you should receive, because we will gladly give you an instant cash advance the moment your consignment is accepted for auction.

COMPLETE PROTECTION FOR YOUR HOLDINGS. Your property is fully insured and protected in our bank vaults from the moment we receive it—and we will even send couriers to pick up your coins if your collection warrants it. A secure financial settlement following the sale is also guaranteed, for no auction service anywhere is more reliable than Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, a member of the billion-dollar-strong General Mills family of companies. Peace of mind is yours!

PROFESSIONAL REFERENCES. Our founders, James F. Ruddy (retired) and Q. David Bowers, are life members of the American Numismatic Association and are members of the Professional Numismatists Guild (Mr. Ruddy is a recipient of the PNG's Distinguished Service Award, and Mr. Bowers is a director of the PNG), the International Association of Professional Numismatists, the American Numismatic Society, the Royal Numismatic Society of London, and other leading organizations worldwide. Both are widely known for their research and writings in the field of numismatics, including best-selling books on coin grading and investing.

THE BEST POSSIBLE PRICES for your rarities and choice type coins are the result of our famous numismatic expertise, our research into varieties, our superbly illustrated auction catalogues, and our extensive advertising for each auction. THERE IS NO FINER AUCTION SERVICE!

Join the group of satisfied Bowers & Ruddy Galleries consignors next time you decide to sell your collection or significant single rarities (minimum consignment $2000). Numismatic Literary Guild Award: THE BOOK OF THE YEAR!

ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS, by Q. David Bowers, has been selected by the Numismatic Literary Guild as The Book of the Year, a rare honor which in 1979 was awarded to just one book!

Here is one of the most fascinating, most valuable, and most interesting books in all of American numismatics. The large (305 pages, 8½ x 11" size, hardbound, many photographic illustrations) book is crammed with information you can use, whether you are a collector, dealer, or investor.

Margo Russell, editor of Coin World, said: "If you've ever had a coin in your pocket, you must have this book in your hand! ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS reads with the romance of a historical novel and with the excitement of an artful thriller. Bowers, the professional, offers prudent collecting and investment advice. Like a good coin, this book has undeniable substance; the literary investment of the year."

Kenneth E. Bressett, editor of The Guide Book of United States Coins, the familiar "Red Book," says: "Dave Bowers' latest book is a prime example of the kind of stimulating and informative writing expected from his fluent pen. It fulfills the wish of many—that experienced collectors should record their knowledge for the benefit of others."

Arnold Jeffcoat, editor of Numismatic News, wrote: "He intertwines basic facts with the romance-history-art concept surrounding every coin ever struck. An enriching numismatic experience."

Hundreds of other readers and reviewers were also enthusiastic with their comments. The books have been selling like hotcakes, with the result that a large second printing has been made!

What the Book Can Do For You

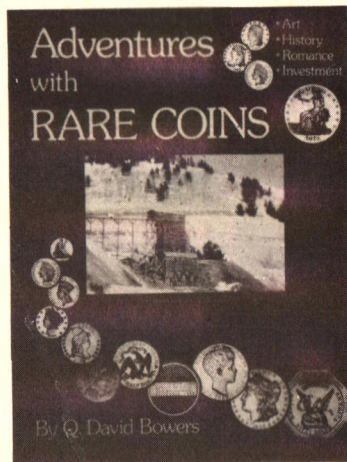

Here is a book you can use! In today's rapidly changing market—gold up $20 one day and down $20 the next—interest rates going all over the place—inflation—coin auction record prices—and many other things, some understandable, others confusing, KNOWLEDGE is the key to success. While as a coin buyer you can write out checks and will have no trouble finding dealers to help you spend them, are you spending with knowledge? Or, are you just "going along for the ride," keeping your fingers crossed that the future will be as good as the past?

Well, Dave Bowers isn't an oracle, and he can't tell you if the price of gold next Wednesday will go up or down, or what the Federal Reserve System will do next (indeed, the Fed itself probably doesn't know!), but he has had over a quarter century of experience on the firing line, in the very front of America's coin activity. He has bought and sold just about every major rarity in the book, has been involved in hoards, deals, and distributions, has known nearly all of the names and faces of the times, and has really been "involved."

ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS, which features an introduction by John J. Ford, Jr., the prominent New York numismatist, is an exhilarating experience to read. Far from being a stuffy textbook, the volume is written in a fascinating, readable manner. Lee Martin, of COINage Magazine, calls it "the type of book that once started, the reader refuses to put down!" And, while you read, you will learn. Learn what? Read on . . .

SILVER DOLLARS are a popular item on today's market. ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS devotes a full chapter to Morgan and Peace dollars—how they were made, all about hoards and quantities of certain dates and mintmarks—scandals and embarrassing situations—price movements, and so on. If you are involved with silver dollars, this chapter alone is worth the price of the book!

GOLD COINS are another area of market activity. When you read ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS you'll be able to talk like a numismatic expert about gold coins! Paper money, nickel five-cent pieces, tokens, Proof coins, colonials, large cents, type coins . . . these and many other topics are covered.

INVESTMENT? Are you interested in it? Back in the 1950's Dave Bowers (with James F. Ruddy) developed the first monthly investment program in numismatics. You can bet that he has learned a lot since! Chapter 9 of ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS gives you much investment advice, information, and many insights that you cannot get elsewhere. There is no substitute for knowledge, and with this book you'll get lots of it. Too, there's no substitute for experience, and Dave shares his experience with you.

The price of this large, beautiful, and value-filled book? If we were to charge $30 for it, it would be a bargain. But the cost isn't $30, or even $20. Would you believe just $14.95? That's it! And, the price includes postage and packing! "What if I don't like the book?" you may ask. No problem! Read the next paragraph!

SUPER GUARANTEE!

ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS is yours for $14.95. We guarantee that after examining it, you will consider it to be worth $30 or more! So confident are we of the book's informational value, appearance, quality, and contents, that we guarantee you'll find it to be WORTH TWICE THE PRICE PAID! If you do not, then simply return it within two weeks of receipt for an instant refund without question!

Have you ever wondered how many people take advantage of the guarantees of various sorts you've seen in print? Well, with ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS, of the approximately 5000 copies distributed, just two (that's right, just two) individual copies have been returned! One buyer thought that the book was a substitute for the ANA Grading Guide and was disappointed to find it wasn't, and the other simply said, "It wasn't what I expected."

So there, you have the facts, and you have our guarantee!

Order your copy of ADVENTURES WITH RARE COINS today.
A real adventure awaits you!

DO YOU WANT TO KNOW OUR SELL PRICES OF BULLION-TYPE COINS
TODAY? or EVERY DAY?
YOU DON'T EVEN HAVE TO PHONE!
YOUR LITTLE CALCULATOR WILL TELL YOU QUICKLY AND EASILY!

Just follow our formula:

BULLION-TYPE GOLD COINS UNCIRCULATED

1 TROY OZ. GOLD

KRUGGERAND CANADA MAPLE LEAF FRANKLIN MINT

Our prices are based on the N.Y. spot price of gold on the day we receive your check.

1 pc.	N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 9%
5 pcs.	N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 8.5%
10 pcs.	10x N.Y. Spot Price per oz. + 8%

To determine our prices on the other gold coins listed below, use the gold content of the coin in Troy ounces, and multiply by the sell price of the 1 oz. gold pieces (Kruggerand, Canada Maple Leaf or Franklin Mint). EXAMPLE: If the Kruggerand is $600, the Mexico 50 Pesos would be $600 times 1.2057, or $723.42; the Sovereign: $600 times .2354, or $141.24. Similarly, this also applies to the quantity discounts.

NOTICE

to gold sellers

If there's one basic fact of numismatic life that's as sure as snow in Alaska, it's that William Youngerman wants to buy gold. We want to buy your common gold, we want to buy your rare gold, we want your U.S. and your foreign.

Sure, selling your numismatic material can be frustrating. We've seen collectors, time and again, shopping around like puppies at a flower show and end up doing more fretting and stewing than anything else. Now, we don't mind competition, but just remember that William Youngerman is a name that has meant gold since 1967. At any given time, we have in stock many of the true rarities. The only way to get material such as this is to pay through the nose.

We invite you to shop your U.S. or foreign gold for free appraisal and cash offer. We include the full cost of forwarding your coins in our offer. Although it doesn't happen often, if we do not come to an agreement, we will return your coins fully insured and postpaid, with our check for all your shipping and cost. Send your material fully insured, including invoice listing coins, your full address and telephone number. If you prefer, we will fly to buy large estates or collections. Call today and make an appointment to fit your schedule.

Our references include: Professional Numismatists Guild; American Numismatic Association; Better Business Bureau.

What more can we say. Give us a try. You'll be glad you did!

WE NEED YOUR EARLY TYPE COINS

The Douglas Weaver buying philosophy can be summed up in one simple rule that we always try to follow:

We would rather pay "too much" for nice, problem free coins than to accumulate an inventory of potential bargains that we need to apologize for.

When we attend major auctions, coin shows, or travel to purchase collections, we do so fully prepared to exceed every other offer in order to come away with the coins we need.

Presently we have need to purchase a varied selection of early United States type coins (1793-1807), to fill want lists and to balance our regular inventory.

It is our contention that when buying early type, each coin must be carefully judged on its own merits and not lumped into general categories of value and condition. We also maintain that much of the current pricing information that is available should be considered as only a very general guide. We are fully prepared to pay "whatever it takes" to obtain nice coins.

If you have something nice to sell in early type please give us an opportunity to meet your price or make an offer. We're confident that you will like our straight-forward, no-nonsense way of doing business.

WHEN YOU FINALLY GET AROUND TO INVESTING IN RARE COINS,

THERE IS BUT ONE ALTERNATIVE —
M. B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, LTD.

The purpose of this advertisement is not to convince you that choice and rare United States coinage offers unequalled investment potential. As a numismatist and reader of The Numismatist magazine, surely this much you already realize. If, by some off chance, you have not yet joined the ranks of true numismatic believers, please write to our firm for additional investment information. What, then, is the point of our ad? If you will pardon our candor in answering thusly: We are working to make the words "rare coin investment" synonymous with the name "M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, LTD."

THE M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES DIFFERENCE:

Unfortunately, in this business it is quite easy for a "fly-by-night" group to hang a numismatic "investment counseling" sign in the national advertising window. Both novice and advanced collector-investors have difficulty in determining which companies are permanently involved in numismatics and which companies belong to the ephemera of the rip-off industry.

At M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, we've been in the mainstream of true numismatic professionalism for over a decade and a half. As one of the most firmly established rare coin corporations in the United States, we aren't shy about flaunting our credentials... We are life members of the American Numismatic Association (#592), members of the Professional Numismatists Guild (since 1969), American Numismatic Society (since 1966), as well as all major state and regional numismatic organizations. Last year Krause Publications (the producers of many noteworthy publications) presented us with their Customer Service Award for high business standards. We take the PNG Code of Ethics seriously. "As a coin dealer, I recognize my obligations to the public and toward fellow-members in my industry. It is my intention to be worthy of the confidence and respect of those with whom I come in contact in the numismatic trade." We are in this business to stay!

WHAT MAKES OUR COIN INVESTMENT PROGRAM SO SUCCESSFUL?

Although we do not, by any means, claim to be the only trustworthy source of rare coin investments, we do believe that our "program" is unique in its own right.

Some of the other major coin companies promote programs in which the client joins a club calling for fixed monthly payments. YOU CAN'T JOIN OUR INVESTMENT CLUB BECAUSE WE DO NOT HAVE ONE. We do not offer this type of coin buying plan as we feel too many dealers have abused such programs. Frankly, monthly "package deals" provide unscrupulous "professionals" with a convenient outlet for coins that have been in stock too long or merchandise that the dealer cannot otherwise sell. At M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES, LTD., we design the investment plan with you — after we are fully aware of your objectives.

Since your investment is ultimately your own decision, and rightly so, our company has proven itself invaluable in helping and guiding the individual in making the right choice. Our coin catalogs and ads are a guide for you; but your choices are by no means limited to those items we have in inventory. We will gladly locate a particular piece if it's available. As a matter of fact, our staff spends hours researching and studying past trends and performances in order to achieve proficiency in investment recommendations. Furthermore, we employ a Certified Public Accountant who will be happy to answer your questions pertaining to numismatic investment of private funds, Corporate Pension plans, Keogh programs or estate planning.

In a word, the M.B. SIMONS & ASSOCIATES investment plan is "personalized." Join us. Call or write immediately; we'll be waiting.

Buying Currency

Prices for top quality United States Currency over the past year have increased drastically; many notes have doubled, even tripled, in value over the past 12 months. This has come about by the old law of Supply and Demand. With the rash of new collectors in this field, the demand has outweighed the supply three-fold. The very popular Educational set has gone over the $10,000 level, and the once-plentiful 1923 $1 Silver Certificate is fast approaching the $100 level. To satisfy our customers' wants, we need to buy and will pay much higher prices than ever before.

No, we do not publish an advertised buy price because we feel the market is much too volatile. We believe in paying TOP MARKET PRICES for Gem quality notes (much higher than some of the advertised buy prices). That's a fair deal, and a good one!

We are also in great need of quality circulated material and do not restrict our buying to Choice and Gem notes. So, if you are thinking of selling, prices have never been higher. Or, if you have a specific note or notes that you have been looking for, try us. Either way, feel free to drop us a line or give us a call to discuss your needs with us—we look forward to talking with each and every one of you!

Before you rush into the commemorative boom, rush into this great new book.

A Comprehensive Guide to United States Commemorative Coins.

The most complete authoritative reference book ever published on U.S. Commemorative Coins.

Compared to other rare coin opportunities, collecting and investing in U.S. Commemorative Coins was last on the numismatist's list. But now, all that has changed: during the last year or year and a half, commemorative coins have been generating an unexpectedly high degree of interest and enthusiasm among collectors from coast to coast. The result is a booming new market for you to enter and profit from. But before you do, it would be wise to first invest in the one book that can turn your commemorative coin collection into a commemorative coin bonanza.

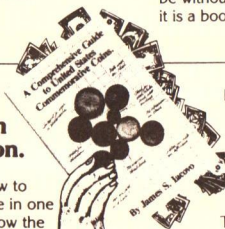

The book that puts it all together.

Mr. Iacovo spent two and a half years undertaking the difficult and time-consuming task of preparing a book that covers everything an aspiring or accomplished numismatist needs to know about U.S. Commemorative Coins. The book defines, in precise terms, what constitutes MS60, MS65 and MS65+ commemorative coins. It covers in detail all aspects of grading, specific surface peculiarities, luster and abrasions. Its pages reveal facts that tell you about pricing, pricing premiums and pricing trends. Included are many charts, coin evaluations and Mr. Iacovo's special "Buying Tips" that combine to make this major work the most valuable and useful ready-reference source on U.S. Commemorative Coins you can own. It is a book no numismatist should be without. And, if you collect commemoratives, it is a book you cannot be without.

A Commemorative Guide is a compendium of profitable information.

Virtually everything you need to know to make the most profitable decisions is here in one easy-to-use reference source. Need to know the history of the retail price for a Panama-Pacific Exposition Gold Dollar? Your Commemorative Guide has the answer. What should you look for when inspecting a York Half Dollar? Your Commemorative Guide tells you.

Above the reference pricing charts, individual coin evaluations and thorough index are the well-researched and intelligent Statistical Tables on both Silver and Gold U.S. Commemorative Coins. No critical area is left undiscussed.

EXCESSIVELY RARE MINT STATE 1794 DOLLAR

The first Silver Dollar minted by the United States. Bolender 1. First star close to 1; second star near curl, but not touching. Rev., branch with 21 leaves, wreath with 19 berries. Only the single variety of this year. BRILLIANT UNCIRCULATED, choice and nearly pristine.

The beautiful surfaces display a remarkable sheen, resplendent with full original mint frost. It barely falls short of absolute perfection due to a small mint abrasion on third star, otherwise without any visible blemish incurred after striking. Perfectly centered, and excellent bold impression, especially sharp on the hair details and eagle's wings and breast feathers, however, it is one of the later strikings from these dies, showing heavy clash marks around centers, together with the characteristic weakness at left on either side, the flattening being directly attributed to the die injuries and common to this issue. Fully equal to the finest known, being tied with several other Mint State examples in the Condition Census. An extreme rarity in this condition. Of only 1758 coined on October 15, 1794, not quite fifty specimens are extant today in all grades, most of these having been melted down for bullion in the early 1800's. Absolutely the most superb example of this highly coveted date since we sold the F.C.C. Boyd (WGC)-Adolph Friedman-Charles Williams specimen in the 1949 ANA sale.

In this magnificent state of preservation this extraordinary 1794 Silver Dollar is a classic American rarity in the truest sense, being one of the most historic and desirable numismatic items of all United States coinage.

Reasonably priced to sell at$95,000.00

the highest realized prices possible.

CONSIDER THESE ADVANTAGES:

- * Superior entered the field of numismatics in 1930. Where else can you get 47 years of experience?
- * We are a financially sound corporation, prepared to provide generous cash advancements at the time of consignment.
- * Your collection, while stored in our vaults, is fully insured at all times.
- * With the use of our extensive Numismatic Library, containing over 2,000 volumes, your coins will be expertly catalogued by a staff of professionals who are more than just familiar with your type of collection.
- * We know the importance of quality photographs in assisting mail bidders, we therefore use more photographs than most European or Domestic auction firms.
- * Our auctions are strategically planned around major numismatic events to insure that our sessions are well attended.
- * Our mailing list has been carefully developed and closely screened to provide our consignment with qualified anxious buyers who are prepared to pay realistic prices for quality coins.
- * The promotion of our auction sale begins with the first consignment we receive. Our spacious location in Beverly Hills provides a most comfortable atmosphere and allows every floor bidder the opportunity to view the lots at least three months prior to our sale. We personally contact our active buyers and provide private viewing of your coins.
- * Most importantly, after the sale is over and you have reaped your financial rewards for all of the years you have spent building your collection, our catalog becomes your catalog ... A permanent record of all that you have achieved in numismatics.

We, at Superior Galleries, are certain that our method of auction sale is the finest available and we have proved it to our consignors. Now, we want to prove it to you. We will be happy to provide you with all of the information you will need as well as a past auction catalog and prices realized so you may judge for yourself.

SPANISH GOLD INGOT

This massive Spanish gold ingot is perhaps the most widely known and best pedigreed treasure ship ingot in the world. Found off the coast of Florida in 1964, it was photographed by the State of Florida when found. National Geographic Magazine pictured this ingot in four full color photos in the January 1965 issue of their magazine. This ingot is 6" in diameter and about 1" thick. Total weight is 106 oz. of which 52 oz. is gold and 54 oz. is silver. (At $500 per oz. gold and $20 per oz. silver, the ingot has a metal value of $27,040.00!)

Ingot is sold with State of Florida photo, large full color photos from the slides taken by National Geographic, assay report, and a history with information on all owners of the ingot. A stunning piece of numismatic history!

At last AN ALBUM THAT REALLY DISPLAYS AND PROTECTS YOUR VALUABLE COIN COLLECTION

For years coin collectors have had to settle for storage and display albums that were far from ideal. Many albums failed to protect the coins adequately from tarnish, hid the reverse sides of the coins, did not allow for duplication of coins in a series and/or made it difficult to view the edges.

Some of them contained spaces for coins which were so rare that "holes" were left unfilled in the albums.

Until now no album has met the needs of the discriminating collector. But the "Flip-A-Coin" Album solves coin collectors' problems like none other before it.

- 1) Each coin is protected from dust, moisture and fingerprints by its own plastic show-case.
- 2) Each coin can be removed and reinserted at any other location in the album, so there is no need for an empty "hole" on any page. They can be arranged according to type, date, errors, or in any desired grouping.
- 3) The edges can be plainly viewed without removing the coin.
- 4) The coin can be pivoted so as to show both obverse and reverse surfaces without turning the page or inverting the album.
- 5) Pages can be added and security maintained because of the screw post binder mechanism.
- 6) The cover, tastefully colored and designed, attractively displays all your coins. There is even a transparent vinyl pocket that holds information.

Basically, the album consists of durable plastic leaves, each with eight holes fitting silver dollars. The hole size and number vary with the denomination of coin from page to page.

The coin is contained within its own plastic show-case that can be sealed from dust and fingerprints. This holder is held in the album by a sturdy nylon pin assembly within the page.

The pins are normally locked but may be released so that the coin can be flipped over for inspection or removed from the album. Until pressure is exerted upon spring action of the pin, the coin is held firmly in the album with no possibility of falling out.

The pages are made of high impact plastic with hinges held securely within the plastic sheets to allow the pages to lie flat for inspection. The vinyl cover is of the screw post type so that each page can be removed or new pages added.

The coins are identified by peel-off stickers which are placed in recessed date slots below the openings. Thus, the collector can place his coins in the album in any way he wishes and still maintain proper identification.

Clients are asked to consign items to us for a minimum of three months at a minimum of £15 per item. Items over £250 will be illustrated free but will incur a charge of £7.50 if the vendor wishes an item returned. Items under £250 will be illustrated, if requested, at a fee of £7.50.

SHOREHAM ENTERPRISES

NEEDS YOUR COINS

and will pay high prices to get them. If you're reading this ad, chances are you have coins to sell. If so, you've come to the right place. We are in desperate need of all numismatic items for both our mail order and our new retail outlet. Our credentials are unquestioned in the coin industry (we've advertised in Coin World for the last sixteen years). Our check is the fastest in the East. Just ship your coins (insured or registered) and our offer, in the form of a check, will rocket back to you the same day your package arrives. And we mean the same day (not an annoying 2 or 3 weeks later). For fast service, please include your phone number.

Should you decide not to accept our offer (which seldom happens), we will pay shipping costs both ways. We can use just about anything, from half cents to $50 slugs, paper money, foreign coins, from one coin to complete collections or accumulations, in all grades. Be it $20 or $500,000, we're interested. If you feel a personal visit is necessary, one of our representatives will come to you, at your convenience. Please feel free to call us collect anytime to discuss your holdings. Certified check or cash is always available and all dealings are strictly confidential. Our bank reference is the Republic National Bank of New York, New York City. Walter Cooper; Vice-President.

(We reserve the right to reject any coin unconditionally.)

When selling, contact Shoreham Enterprises first; you'll be glad you did!

COINS ARE FUN

You would not dispute that, I'm sure. The fact that you are an ANA member reinforces your image as an astute member of a select group of dedicated numismatists.

But have you ever experienced the ultimate in numismatics? Have you heard the sweet music of the applause of your fellow collectors at a club meeting, coin show, State or National convention?

With Numi$lides you can present a professional program that compares favorably with the most expert and entertaining shows you've ever seen.

Numi$lides are professional quality slides of U.S. coins photographed against varied, richly colored background, clearly labelled for easy identification. They project vividly all of the beautiful and historically significant detail as the engraver intended.

Read what two internationally prominent numismatists, Virgil Hancock and Col. Grover Criswell, both past presidents of the ANA said, "Once again your mastery of the shutter is evident. The slides show every detail. You should have no trouble marketing them."

For all the information you need about Numi$lides, just send a card or letter to:

- 1) We are consistently one of the biggest buyers at any major coin convention we attend. The coins that we buy from other dealers have mostly been purchased from collectors. Why not sell to the top buyer?
- 2) Year after year we have bought more collections from collectors than other dealers on a competitive bid basis. We are not afraid to bid against our competitors; we welcome the opportunity.
- 3) We have one of the larger mail order businesses in the country and we are constantly in need of good numismatic material. Since we have the customers we can and will pay more.
- 4) We have never had to pass up a collection because of size. We will not try to buy your collection and then pay you for it as we sell it.

Augusto Dragoni Recollects . . .

"Remember in Kagin's 1977 ANA Auction that beautiful Victor Emanuel III 1903 100 lire in EF?

"Well, I do because out of all the dealers in the world, I paid the highest price.

"Recalling my past acquisitions, I also remember a magnificent piece that I picked up in Superior's June 1979 auction . . . Italy's Humbert I 1878 5 lire in EF.

"Surely you remember that timeless piece I purchased from NASCA's 'London Collection' in July 1979; that rare Papal States 1589 Anno V. scudo in Fine.

"I am interested in only the finest quality, the rarest condition—the ultimate in numismatics. Why? Because to acquire this caliber of material, I have to pay the highest prices available."

WE PAY MORE! WHY SELL FOR LESS?

WE WANT TO BUY: Your entire collection is urgently needed no matter what the size, if it contains the items we are looking for. Generally we are interested in any collection which contains Choice and Rare coins and early U.S. coins in AU or better condition.

SELLING TO US: You will find that selling to our Rare Coin Galleries is easy and safe. Here is all you do—Package your coins carefully and send them to us insured or registered mail. You may state the value you wish to receive or send your coins for our generous offer. Upon receipt David Bland, Jr. will personally examine your coins and notify you immediately. Our offer will be in the form of a confidential insured check — cash payments can also be arranged. No collection is too large, (we have over $1,000,000.00 to spend). If your collection is too large to mail please send an itemized inventory to the attention of David Bland, Jr., and we will travel to you if the size of the collection warrants it.

YOU WILL RECEIVE MORE FOR YOUR COINS: Because our needs are so great at this time we will pay more than any other major dealer in the U.S. Why sell your collection for less when it is so easy and safe to sell your coins to David Bland, Jr.?

WANTED! TOKENS & MEDALS related to DENTISTRY

From any and all countries of the world. Please send item or clear rubbing for my offer. Be sure to state if gold, silver, copper, tin, lead, zinc, or whatever.

These are for a collector friend of some 20 years' standing who has asked my help in furthering his collection. Because my friend now lives in a far-away place and only he knows what he already has, I have to forward offerings to him and await his answer. Thus it may take a couple of weeks for you to get a reply from me on these dental items. I will acknowledge your letter upon receipt and will get back to you. If you are a collector and long-time ANA member, I will simply put the two of you in direct contact. My interest in this matter is that of a friend and in no way commercial.

The Fortune-Teller is America's fastest-growing rare coin advisory. Unlike other (and more expensive) newsletters, it is clearly written with specific recommendations and exact predictions.

In the past three years, our predictions have been extremely accurate. If you collect Silver Dollars, Type, Commem's, Gold, etc., Les and Sue Fox may very well know your numismatic future.

QUIETLY . . .

and with little ballyhoo, I've been paying up-to-date, current market prices for fine foreign coins, tokens, essays, and commemorative medals for many years.

Since 1958 I've been buying and selling numismatic items of quality, and with over 20 years of experience in foreign numismatics, a constantly increasing knowledge born of a real interest in and devotion to the subject, and a reference library which compares favorably to most, I feel I am well equipped to pay realistic prices for anything worthwhile you have for sale. Plain Talk From a Collector Who Owns Whitman Classics

When the Whitman Classic Album came out I thought it was just a better Bookshelf Album. But, it's much more.

I Save money with Classics. I can house my entire Lincoln Cent collection, from 1909 to date, for less than Bookshelf or any hinge post album on the market.

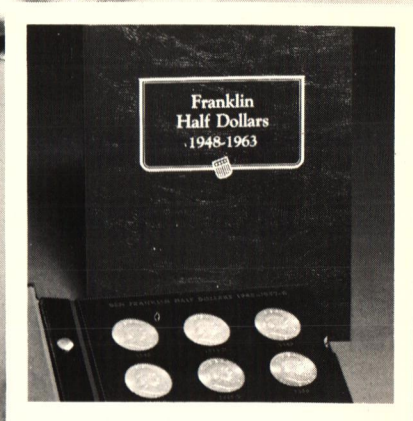

I Don't Worry About Tarnish reducing the value of my coins. The Classic window and pages are specially formulated to retard tarnish and protect the coins' mint luster.

My Coins Look Good in the albums. I like to show my collection to others. The deep royal blue really enhances my coins.

I am proud of the way the albums look when I display my coins. They have clean bold lettering and are of an enduring design. That's why they're called Classics.

Michael E. Strand

Whitman is sure you'll like the Classic as well as I do.

Available at coin dealers and supply stores everywhere. Look for the Whitman signature if you want to be certain.
